Republicans Nominate Love for Governorship

* * *

By RAY GUNTER

Colorado Springs attorney John Love making his first try for elective office, received overwhelming support Tuesday from Republicans thruout the state in swamping his opponent David A. Hamil by a margin of more than 22,000 votes in his bid for governor.

In his home county, Love outpolled his rival by a nearly 4-1 margin.

El Paso County Republicans gave their native son 7,363 votes, compared with 2,050 for Hamil. Love emerged with 78.2 per cent of the 9,413 votes cast in the county — a "runaway" in any political handbook.

The vote in 1,790 of the state's 1,886 precincts gave Love a total of 64,725 votes, Hamil 42,565.

Most of the precincts outstanding today were small, rural ones, and will not affect the magnitude of Love's triumph.

The political newcomer, having displayed a surprising show of strength among fellow party members, will next face Democratic Gov. Steve McNichols in the Nov. 6 general election.

A vigorous, aggressive campaign is expected from both candidates during the next two months.

Going into the contest, Love will be able to draw on brief but valuable experience in going after the top political office in the state. Virtually unknown outside his home county, the 45-year-old attorney launched his campaign long before the July state convention.

Beginning in late spring and summer, he visited county Republicans in all parts of the state, and governed the necessary support of Denver GOP leaders.

His opponent, Hamil, had long years of political experience behind him. The 53-year-old northeastern Colorado cattleman had served as speaker of the Colorado House and as administrator of the

Tabulation of Votes Listed in Today's Paper

A precinct-by-precinct tabulation of votes in key elections is provided on Page 13 of today's Gazette Telegraph.

The chart gives the complete unofficial results in each of the county's 87 precincts for both Democratic and Republican candidates for governor, U.S. Senator and U.S. representative and for the Republican state senatorial contest.

The 1962 primary elections held Tuesday marked the inauguration of the use of voting machines in El Paso County, making possible the quick tabulation of votes for each precinct.

It also was the first vote conducted under the recently reorganized election districts, which cut the number of precincts from 128 to 87.

Father-Son Team Of Chenoweths Win Primary Vote

DENVER (AP) — An unusual father-and-son team is running for Congress in two separate Colorado districts in the general election.

In all probability, nothing like it has ever happened before although records were not immediately available.

State Sen. William B. Chenoweth, 41, won the Republican nomination for Congress from the First (Denver) District in Tuesday's primary election while his father, J. Edgar Chenoweth, was renominated for an 11th term by Republicans of the Third (southern) District. The elder Chenoweth, now 65, has been a congressman continuously since 1940 except for 1949-50.

William Chenoweth defeated Edward Barkley Wilcox, a retired minister, 17,359 to 6,286 in Denver's 457 precincts.

Two Boulder men will fight it out for Congress from the Second (northeast) District. They are Republican Donald G. Brotzman and Democrat Conrad McBride, a political science professor at the University of Colorado and a graduate of Utah State University.

Brotzman, former legislator, twice GOP nominee for governor and later U.S. attorney for Colorado, won the Republican nomination by beating a boyhood friend, State Rep. Howard B. Propst. They grew up together at Merino, where Propst still lives.

The vote in 588 of 60 precincts: Brotzman 27,622, Propst 14,625.

McBride won a three-way race from John Shafroth, grandson of a former U.S. senator, and Harold Adcock, Greeley florist and former legislator. Shafroth is an

Skiffington Trounces Party Rejection in Primary Vote

State Sen. Lawrence T. Skiffington, campaigning on his four-term conservative record in the Colorado General Assembly, scored a resounding victory Tuesday over challenger Robert W. Johnson in the El Paso County Republican primary election.

* * *

Skiffington outpolled Johnson by a 1,142 margin, 5,186 to 4,044, in a stunning political come-back.

The veteran Manitou Springs legislator had been rejected by party leaders July 7 in the GOP county assembly in favor of Johnson by a 213-176 vote. During the last two months, however, Skiffington and his supporters campaigned strongly thruout the county among GOP rank-and-file members.

The effectiveness of this campaign and the support for Skiffington's brand of conservative Republicanism was demonstrated in Tuesday's election, in which he garnered 56.2 per cent of the 9,230 senatorial votes.

The primary victory virtually assures Skiffington of a third term in the state senate since no county Democrat has yet come forward to seek the post.

Prior to his election to the senate, Skiffington served two terms in the state house of representatives.

In a statement Tuesday night, Skiffington credited his victory to the effective support of his backers thruout the county and to the popularity of the conservative cause.

"I'm deeply indebted to my good friends and the hundreds of loyal workers in Colorado Springs and thruout El Paso County from Ellicott, Calhan, Fountain, Palmer Lake, Monument, Green Mountain Falls, Cascade, the Ute Pass area and all my loyal friends in Manitou and Colorado Springs who have worked so hard for me in the last two weeks.

"I have a great respect for the

Johnson Has No Political Plans; Calls for Unity

Defeated state senatorial candidate Robert W. Johnson indicated Tuesday night he has no political plans for the future.

Johnson was defeated by incumbent Sen. Lawrence T. Skiffington 5,186 to 4,044 in the Republican primary in El Paso County.

Johnson, who has served as Colorado Springs vice mayor since 1959, will complete his six-year term on the City Council next April.

"I have no idea of running again for the council next April," he said. "I intended to serve only one six-year term and I plan to retire to my private law practice when that term is up."

When Johnson was contacted by the Gazette Telegraph shortly after 10 p.m., with Skiffington in front 2,815 to 1,971 after 52 precincts were tallied, he conceded the race to his rival and called for party unity in the Nov. 6 general election.

"Without any question Sen. Skiffington has won the Republican senatorial primary. I congratulate him and I hope all Republicans who have so generously supported me will give him their wholehearted support in the general election."

Accused Romance Bomber Slated For Assault Trial

Arthur Ray Haas, 19, of Ft. Carson, will face trial for assault with a deadly weapon in District Court Oct. 16.

Haas who appeared in District Court Tuesday before Judge William M. Calvert, is alleged to have manufactured a bomb Jan. 18, and given it to Anita Hummer, a former waitress at Peterson Field with instructions she deliver it to Claude Glidden, an airman, believed to be a rival for the affections of Mrs. Hummer.

Other cases set for trial included Max Kyle Meyers, charged with removal of automobile parts.

Meyers, 18, of 2226 N. Cooper Eve., is accused of stealing a carburetor worth $33, June 14, from Thomas Espinosa.

Both defendants were represented by Jack K. Agee.

Attorney Robert L. Russel appeared on behalf of William Edward Sanchez, 27, of Manitou Springs, accused of being in possession of narcotics Aug. 26.

Sanchez will be tried Oct. 23.

Two co-defendants, Billy Lee Stanley, 19, and Howard Ivan Stanley, 18, both of 3221 W. Colorado Ave., will face trial for mayhem Oct. 2.

According to information the two men attacked Andrew Feeley, 49, on the Bear Canon Road, July 4. It is stated that Feeley's leg was broken and his ankle dislocated. Their attorney is Lawrence A. Hecox.

Fewer Than One Out of Four Registered Voters in County Visit Primary Polls

Fewer than one out of four registered voters in El Paso County went to the polls Tuesday for the 1962 primary elections.

The greatest interest, as expected, was shown in two hotly contested Republican races, with 9,413 county GOP members voting for governor and 9,230 for state senator.

Local Republicans gave Colorado Springs attorney John Love a strong send-off in his bid for the governor's chair with a 7,363-to-2,050 vote over his rival, David A. Hamil of Sterling.

Leading vote-getter for the Republicans was incumbent J. Edgar Chenoweth, U.S. representative, with 8,606 votes.

In the race for State Senate, county Republicans gave incumbent Lawrence T. Skiffington of Manitou Springs a surprisingly strong victory over his opponent, Robert W. Johnson, vice mayor of Colorado Springs. Skiffington received 5,186 votes, compared with Johnson's 4,044.

Top vote-getter for the Democrats was ticket leader Sen. John A. Carroll, who is seeking a second term in the U.S. Senate this fall. Carroll picked up 2,722 votes from El Paso County Democrats.

Gov. Steve McNichols received less than all-out support from county Democrats, getting only 2,375 votes and trailing behind five other state Democratic candidates.

On the county level, incumbent clerk and recorder Harriet Beals polled 2,620 Democratic votes.

Democratic party leaders expressed no concern at the small turnout, stating that there was little incentive for local party members to go to the polls except to register a token vote.

The only Democratic contest was for attorney general, with John Metzger, who formerly held the post, drawing 2,159 votes, compared with only 512 for C. J. Berardini. The local voting followed a statewide pattern that saw Metzger swamp his opponent, thereby drawing the nod to face incumbent Republican Duke W. Dunbar in November.

Total votes cast by Democrats and Republicans in the county were 12,135, compared with 49,414 persons registered to vote. Primary registration lists showed 13,733 Republicans, 10,316 Democrats and 25,254 independents.

Tuesday's turn-out was lower

Judges Win Salary Issue Against Commissioners

"The judges of district courts in Colorado have the power to fix the salaries of their court employes as long as the judges act not unreasonably or arbitrarily. . . it is the duty of the county commissioners to approve and pay such salaries," Judge John N. Mabry reported this morning in his findings and conclusions of law.

The decision by the judge came out in favor of District Judges G. Russell Miller, David W. Enoch and William M. Calvert.

More than seven months ago, they filed a suit against county commissioners Charles L. Smith, Fred H. Monk and Hugh J. Ross, alleging the commissioners had been unreasonable in refusing certain pay increases the judges set for district court employes.

The judges asked no increases for themselves.

The case finally went to trial Aug. 28 with Judge Mabry presiding. It has since been under advisement.

The local judges disqualified themselves from hearing the case and Mabry, of Trinidad, was appointed by the Supreme Court.

Judge Mabry also decided that the commissioners had "acted unreasonably, arbitrarily and capriciously, and exceeded their authority in this case" when the raises were denied.

He added that it was "a proper case for a declaratory judgment and writ of mandamus."

"The judiciary has its exclusive

PATIO TOWN HOUSES—An artist's drawing depicts the two-story and three-story architectural style of the patio town houses now under construction in Stratmoor Hills. Five two-story and seven three-story units will be built in the initial development. Both units are identical except for the garage, recreation room and half-bath on the first floor of the three-story unit. Each of the town houses will open out onto a concrete patio in the rear. They will face west toward Cheyenne Mountain.

Town Houses With 106 Units Planned in Stratmoor Hills

Patio town houses—an architectural design popular in the eastern United States—will have their Colorado Springs debut soon.

Ground was broken recently for the first 12 units of a projected 106-unit housing development on Catalina Drive in Stratmoor Hills.

Todd Sloan, president of Patio Town Houses, Inc., and builder of the development, estimated that the new project will be completed early in 1963. Seven three-story and five two-story units will then go on sale — $14,500 for the three-story and $12,500 for the two-story units.

The patio town houses feature complete family living residences utilizing space to the utmost. Three-story units will have 1,908 square feet of floor space. The first floor will include a heated garage, recreation room and half bath. On the second floor will be a kitchen, dining area, living room and half bath, and on the third floor will be three bedrooms and a full bath.

The two-story units, utilizing 1,250 square feet of floor space, will be similar to the three-story houses with the exception of the garage, recreation area and half bath.

Each house will open onto an 18 by 20-foot concrete floor patio in the rear surrounded by a six-foot high fence and a two-foot strip of planting area for roses and other flowers.

Aside from the individual patios, Sloan will also build eight 30 by 65-foot playground areas for the entire 106-unit project, and a swimming pool. Residents will have privilege of the Stratmoor Hills Golf Course and recreational facilities.

"They will fit the needs of the young couple who want suburban living within the range of their pocketbooks. For the middle-aged couple these single-family homes will lessen problems of looking in the detached housing market. And for the older couple, patio town houses will lessen the cares of suburban home living," Sloan said.

DIRT SHOWER—A drilling rig breaks ground for the new patio town houses under construction on Catalina Drive in Stratmoor Hills. The machine drills 18-foot holes which will be filled with concrete and steel to support house foundations. The method, new in Colorado, is used extensively in construction of tall buildings, and eliminates house movements which often cause cracking of walls. Watching are, from left, Fred Abrahamson, representing Stratmoor Development Company which sold the land; Todd Sloan, president of Patio Town Houses, Inc., and builder, and Joseph A. Bullen Jr. of Pueblo, president of Bullen Concrete Products Company which will supply pre-fabricated concrete products for the homes. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

Woman to Stand Trial in Death Of Her Husband

Mary Elizabeth Foster will stand trial for first degree murder Oct. 23.

Mrs. Foster, 31, who appeared in District Court Tuesday, is alleged to have shot and killed her husband, Jopis Foster, 32, June 28.

According to a police report at the time, the couple had been quarreling at their home, 914 E. Las Animas St. Mrs. Foster told police that her husband had attacked her and pulled a handful of hair from her head. It is alleged that she shot him while he was lying on the living room sofa.

The district attorney's office was represented by Donald W. Higby, district attorney, and Patrick Hinton, assistant district attorney.

Humphrey Denies Buildup in Cuba Is Threat to United States Safety

WASHINGTON (AP) — An administration Senate leader — speaking against a backdrop of Soviet threats over Cuba — has urged stronger pressure on U.S. allies to halt military and strategic shipments to the Communist outpost in the Caribbean.

Some allies have been "putting profit before the larger interests of the free world," charged Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, assistant Democratic leader.

However, the Minnesota senator scoffed Tuesday at the contention of some Republicans that the build-up in Cuba is a threat to the United States. But, he said, it did threaten other Latin American nations and the United States should not "sit idly by and watch the traffic in chains for Cuba."

Humphrey was joined by Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., in urging some "plain talking" with U.S. allies. Keating said he had been urging such a course for some time.

In his Senate speech Humphrey said "Castro should know that we will discourage by all diplomatic means the shipment of military and strategic supplies to Cuba via free world transport."

He turned his sharpest fire on "Republican jingoists" he said "have been shouting for an invasion of Cuba."

They know, Humphrey said, that there is "enough American firepower afloat off Cuba at any one moment to destroy every major Communist installation in Cuba in a few hours.

"We know exactly where these installations are, and Castro is well aware of what we know."

Humphrey proposed a flat declaration that any Cuban aggression against U.S. ships or installations, or against neighboring nations will be met by force, with or without the support of the Organization of American States.

The Soviet warning that an attack on Cuba would be the beginning of a war that might turn into a world nuclear war generally outraged Congress members.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk declared the United States will not be intimidated by a threat of nuclear war over Cuba.

"We are a great country," said Rusk. "We are not nervous or afraid. We'll proceed as we find it necessary."

Some State Department officials expressed the feeling that the Kremlin statement was mainly an effort to prop up Prime Minister Fidel Castro by proclaiming his ties with the Soviet Union.

Blocked Vent Blamed For Failure of Titan

CHICO, Calif (AP)—The Air Force says a blocked vent caused two explosions that destroyed a Titan missile and severely damaged a missile silo at the Chico missile complex last May 24.

An Air Force report released Tuesday said the blocked vent caused an accumulation of gaseous oxygen. Leakage of water from the fire system blocked a valve.

Two weeks later a flash fire which killed one worker broke out at another silo. The Air Force said the June 6 blaze probably was caused by a spark from sand blasting equipment or a static electricity discharge.

Revolution in Transport Is Seen With Hovercraft

By COLIN FROST

RHYL, Wales (AP)—From the inside it looked like a distorted airliner, much too wide for its length.

Twenty four passengers sat in four rows of six. All plainly suffered from takeoff nerves.

The steward's voice came from the speaker system: "Welcome aboard the world's first Hovercoach service. In a few moments we shall be leaving for Wallasey. Your driver is Capt. Colquhoun—"

The engines revved up and the kids on the beach scattered. It wasn't raining but Les Colquhoun, 42, test pilot and wartime Royal Air Force hero, switched on his windshield wipers.

He eased back the yellow throttle handle. The hovercraft, an ugly roaring beetle contending for a transport revolution, lifted its 10 tons off the sand and slithered gently over the dunes toward the sea.

The hovercraft was the VA3, one of a dozen under development here. It rides eight inches above land or sea on a cushion of air produced by two gas turbine engines. Two more engines drive rear-mounted propellers to move it forward.

A shower of spray whipped past the windows as the VA3 moved onto the surf and swished up to 50 miles per hour.

The noise was exactly that of a four-engine airliner. The motion was different.

Over the sand the ride was ice smooth.

Over the sea it developed a pitch, something like a plane in slight turbulence, punctuated by heavy jolts as big waves slapped up against the bow.

Even then no seat belts were needed. The passengers faced backwards. The jolts just shoved them deeper in their seats.

Colquhoun headed his craft along the coast and into open water. Wales slipped away and the English shore came through the spray.

Twenty-five minutes after leaving, the VA3 edged onto a concrete slipway at Wallasey, 17 miles across the Dee Estuary from Rhyl. By road it is 50 miles and 90 minutes.

The passengers trooped off, all feeling one-up on the watching crowds.

Five years ago none of them had heard of a hovercraft, then little more than an idea in the brain of inventor Christopher Cockerell.

Cockerell built his first model from two food tins. He showed it to the government's military advisers who put it on the secret list and did nothing more. It took [illegible] a year to get the idea declassified and under government-financed development. Now four major companies are pushing it hard.

Two years ago a small hovercraft called the SRN1 went from France to England. Last July the VA3 started the Rhyl-Wallasey run, making eight return trips daily and always working at more than 90 per cent capacity.

The experiment — it is nothing more, not a serious transportation service — ends next week when Rhyl's holiday clients have returned to the factories of Manchester and the English Midlands.

Even at $5.60 a passenger the service has lost money. This was expected. Vickers Armstrong, the builders, and British United Airways, the operators, hope to reap their dividend later.

They have shown the hovercraft can operate over soft sand and shallows which no vehicle or boat can negotiate. The 17 miles from Rhyl to Wallasey are not far different from the 20-odd miles of the English Channel and its rich tourist and commercial traffic.

The VA3 is about the size of three buses side by side, though it weighs less than one of them.

The channel craft will have to be bigger. Vickers is designing a prototype to carry 200 passengers and 14 vehicles at 100 m.p.h.

Will it work?

"I'm convinced it will," said Colquhoun.

"The craft we're using here was on the drawing board less than two years ago. Now it's in operation with a Ministry of Transport license as safe to carry passengers."

Ron Harfitt, British United's commercial manager, forecasts a channel hovercraft service within five years.

Some questions have to be answered.

One is this: How do you protect the craft from a viciously corrosive spray of salt water and sand?

Another, and more difficult, is how to increase operating height and make it variable.

To tackle the channel in even moderate weather the hovercraft would have to float three feet or more above the waves. In calm weather and over land this height would waste power — it need be only three inches above the surface.

Is the hovercraft a ship, an aircraft or what?

The Ministry of Transport just calls it a vehicle.

When the passenger at the end of the row grabbed for the little brown bag was she airsick or seasick?

Or both?

Lion Pampered Too Much, Zoo Declares

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP) — This city's zoo has a spoiled lion on its hands, and can't give it away.

Duffy, a 300-pound cub, was the star of Miller Park's baby animal circus. But the little lion was petted and pampered so much that he couldn't make the transition to an adult role.

The park, faced with another $700 annual meat bill required for adult lions, offered Duffy free to any resident. There were no takers.

A wild-animal dealer offered to take the cub, but changed his mind when he saw Duffy. He said the cub was a "spoiled slob."

Park Superintendent Grover Kettnoefer said any city, village, organization or individual wanting a spoiled lion can have one in Duffy.

O'Henry's Drug Store Is Opened as Museum

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The Greensboro Historical Museum has opened to the public a reproduction of the drug store in which William Sydney Porter—better known as the author O. Henry—once worked.

The store, about a third the size of the original, contains the original wall cases, counters, kerosene lamps, patent medicines and pharmaceutical bottles.

Charlotte Porter, 4-year-old daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Porter III of Cedar Grove, N.C., cut a ribbon to open the store Tuesday night. The Rev. Mr. Porter is a grandson of W. C. Porter, owner of the drug store and uncle of O. Henry. The author was born here Sept. 11, 1862.

Also opened was a new O. Henry room, which the museum says contains the largest collection of O. Henry manuscripts in the nation.

TV Not Exactly Running, but Is on for Season

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — The 1962-63 television season was off, although not exactly running, Tuesday night as CBS' "Lloyd Bridges Show" had its premiere.

Bridges is that good-looking young man who has entertained us for the past couple of seasons as the intrepid skin diver of "Sea Hunt." Each week he engaged in some underwater battling with assorted enemies, human and piscatorial.

Apparently his producers decided that a thoroughly dry Lloyd Bridges would be too much of a shock for the fans. So we first caught him standing unprotected in a drenching rain in his new role of Adam Shepherd, "writer of fact and fiction for newspapers and magazines, of short stories and novels."

Our hero was at the head of a mine where there had been a disaster, and everybody was talking about an unknown doctor who had gone down to administer to three trapped men.

Then Adam climbed into the doc's car and found a letter. All of a sudden he started to disappear in some sort of a twinkly effect on the screen and then emerged as a young doctor returning to his father's Greek village.

The program's weekly device will be that twinkly dissolve, so that Bridges will always be playing dual roles—Adam and some other character his fertile writer's imagination evokes every time he is confronted with a proper stimulus.

Tuesday night's story was one of those noisy, roistering efforts full of simple Greek peasants drinking local wine and making merry over the birth of a child while scheming to make the doctor stay to care for them.

It was all pretty confusing. Maybe the plots will improve in future installments. If they don't, Lloyd may be very sorry he decided to scuttle his flippers and oxygen tanks.

Economic Imperialism Feared by Pakistan

LONDON (AP)—President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan today warned the six-nation European Common Market against imposing a new economic imperialism on developing countries.

In an outspoken address to the Commonwealth summit conference Ayub Khan also addressed a sharp warning to the British government.

"If all our earnest pleas are ignored and if arrangements are finalized between the United Kingdom and the European Economic Community which do serious injury to our economy, our people's confidence in the value of the economic ties with the United Kingdom and the sterling area will be shaken," he said.

The Pakistan leader [illegible] Canadian, Ceylonese and New Zealand statesmen in challenging Britain's plan to link up with the European trading and political bloc known as the Common Market.

Letting loose criticism of the British plan, Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker of Canada proposed instead a big expansion of Commonwealth trading and political cooperation.

Ayub Khan said the terms with the Common Market countries negotiated by Britain so far "do not safeguard our vital interests and are inadequate."

Penrose News

By PEGGY SANDEFUR

Fremont County entered the space race Tuesday night with the formation of the Astron Rocket Society. Some 20 young rocketeers joined to organize the area's first model rocket society at a meeting in Penrose.

Officers of the organization are Keith McKissick, president, Keith Buchanan, vice president, Rose Buchanan, secretary; and Tom Bellino, treasurer. Advisor for the group is James Brent Norlem, director fo educational programs and services at Estes Industries in Penrose.

The society was organized to provide regular model rocket activities for young people of the Fremont County area. Model rocketry is concerned with the building and flying of light weight paper, plastic and balsa rockets which are launched by remote means and incorporate commercial preloaded engines and recovery systems to give maximum safety to the rocketeer. This is opposed to amateur rocketry which involves the highly dangerous practice of mixing and loading explosive propellants into heavy metal rockets. Model rocketry boasts a perfect safety record for over a million launchings while amateur rocketry has one of the highest injury and fatility records of any hobby.

The Astron Rocket Society will be a chartered section of the Nation Association of Rocketry. The NAR is the major model rocket organization of the country and is affiliated with the NAA and cooperates with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in space age education efforts.

Persons of all ages who are interested in participating in the hobby of model rocketry are invited to attend the next meeting of the Astron Rocket Society. This meeting will be held at the Scout Hut in Penrose at 7 p.m. Tuesday. The group's first organized firing will be held on Saturday.

Russian Blast Seen as Bolster For Fidel Castro

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The latest Soviet nuclear war warning today reads more like a statement to bolster the morale of the Fidel Castro government in Cuba than to intimidate the United States.

Whatever view Moscow and Washington may take, Castro and his followers may be seriously worried about the possibility of some new, strongly supported invasion attempt now that they are openly taking Soviet military assistance.

The White House and the State Department withheld immediate comment on the Soviet blast.

But in the circumstances, some such statement as that which the Moscow government issued today would be welcomed in Havana. It might very well have been asked by Havana because of recent anti-Castro developments in Washington.

This is not the first time that such a device has been used by the Soviet Union. In the closing months of the Dwight D. Eisenhower administration Premier Khrushchev personally threatened on more than one occasion to use Soviet rockets against the United States if this country committed aggression against Cuba.

What may be significant about it now, however, is that it seems to mark a further decline in the American-Soviet relationship already heavily strained by such events as the unsuccessful efforts to find a settlement for the Soviet-Western dispute over Berlin.

One hint that Khrushchev intends to keep the new round of angry argument within bounds, however, came in reference to Berlin.

The statement, referring to the forthcoming U.S. congressional elections, said the Soviet government is willing to take the U.S. political situation into account in considering its own Berlin policies.

The statement noted that there had been a pause recently in U.S.-Soviet exploratory talks on Berlin—which was a softly worded way to describe an almost total breakdown in the exchanges.

Republicans Nominate Love for Governorship

Because of his aggressive [illegible], however, Love came [illegible] the July 21 GOP state assembly in Boulder with top designation for the governor's post, receiving 845 votes to Hamil's 566.

Despite that upset preliminary win, many political observers believed that Hamil's strong campaign and his backing by top Republican leaders, including two former governors — Dan Thornton and John C. Vivian — would bring about a close contest in Tuesday's primary.

But as soon as the first returns were in Tuesday night from Denver, El Paso and Pueblo counties, it became apparent that Love would win in a walkaway.

Shortly after 9 p.m. Love and his party workers left his county headquarters at the Antlers Hotel to make a victory appearance at his state headquarters in Denver.

There he immediately announced his campaign will be based upon "the cry I have heard throughout the state: 'We want a change.'"

Hamil, conceding shortly before midnight, pledged his support to Love.

"I am sure," he said, "that John Love believes in the principles of sound government, in the lowest possible tax load and in the principles that will attract new business to Colorado."

Altho a few barbs were passed during the primary campaign between backers of the two GOP candidates, Hamil and Love were both careful to avoid any personal attack on each other.

As a result, the party is expected to close ranks and present a solid front in the attempt to unseat McNichols, who is seeking a third term.

If McNichols wins he would be eligible for an unprecedented 10 years in office. No other Colorado governor has ever serve more than six years, a total which McNichols will reach next January.

There had been little doubt that Love would carry El Paso County, but the margin of his victory was startling even to his backers.

In nailing down nearly 4 of every 5 Republican votes cast in the county, Love took 85 of the 87 precincts by a wide margin.

Precinct 85, in Hanover, gave Hamil his only El Paso County victory, in a small turnout, on an 8-3 vote. Precinct 74 in Douglass Valley at the Air Force Academy gave the candidates a 1-1 tie.

The largest total for Love in any single precinct in the county came from District 7 in northeastern Colorado Springs, which gave him a 260-74 victory over Hamil.

As expected, Love took nearly all of the votes in his Broadmoor home Precinct 68, receiving 243 votes while Hamil took 32.

The adjoining Broadmoor precincts 65, 66 and 67 also gave their neighbor an overwhelming majority vote of 578-125.

Statewide, it was the first time in years that Republicans topped Democrats in total primary votes. They polled more than 107,000 to about 72,000 for the Democrats.

Two years ago Republicans had a turnout of 78,000 and Democrats about 90,000.

With the vote tabulations nearly complete on Tuesday's primary, Love carried, or was leading in, 44 of the state's 63 counties, while Hamil had 19. In the Love column were all 10 of the state's largest counties, which combined, comprised about three-fourths of the Colorado vote.

Hardeman Tallies 9,655 Votes Eckhart 3,891

Today's Weather

(Reports furnished by U. S. Weather Bureau Station at Peterson Field as of 5:30 a.m. today)

In the east, a few thundershowers erupted along the leading edge of the cold front which extended across South Carolina and southeast North Carolina.

To the north, some cloudiness and a few showers spread over Maine and the northern portions of Vermont and New Hampshire and off and along the south Atlantic and Gulf Coast. Lowering clouds, lightning and some widely scattered showers also made an appearance.

Cool 40 degree readings were common across the Ohio Valley and over much of the north and middle Atlantic states while 70s were logged over the southeast.

To the west, mostly clear skies prevailed across the southwest with some cloudiness developing along the border and over coastal California.

Over the northwest skies ranged from partly cloudy to cloudy with a few sprinkles falling in potions of Idaho and western Montana.

Along the coastal sections, temperatures ranged from the 40s in the north to the 50s and 60s in California, with the desert southwest logging the 70s.

Group to Conduct Electric Heating School Today

The Southern Colorado Chapter, National Electrical Contractors Assn. will conduct a school on electric heating today and Thursday at Delmonico's Restaurant.

The school, known as the association's certified, bonded and guaranteed plan for the installation of electric heat, will be conducted by C. Kenneth Kolstad, an electrical engineer.

One of the features of the plan is that contractors are given information to design, install and guarantee operation costs for a period of three years to the purchaser.

Cost records kept by the City of Colorado Springs by the Utilities thru arrangement with T. I. Miller have indicated that electrically heated homes here have experienced costs far less than estimated and that well insulated new homes can be electrically heated at a cost of 10 cents a square foot a year.

Manufacturers' agents and suppliers of electrical equipment in this area have been invited to display electrical heating equipment.

Simon Halle, secretary - manager of the association, said that a recent survey indicates that electrically heated homes now exceed one million; that over three hundred thousand will be added during the next year and that by 1970, the total is expected to pass five million homes.

conservative viewpoint of the citizens of El Paso County, and I will continue to represent all of the people of El Paso County to the best of my ability, as I have done in the past."

Skiffington jumped into an early lead Tuesday night as the first precincts from outlying areas began reporting. The gap widened as more of the city precinct returns were tallied in the county clerk's office and for a time the totals remained at a 3-2 margin in Skiffington's favor.

Johnson carried only 20 of the county's 87 precincts. He carried his own Precinct No. 7 by a 182-147 margin. He also showed strength in Precincts 34, 35 and 36 in southeastern Colorado Springs, Precincts 60 thru 63 in Security and Precinct 64 in Skyway Park.

A tie vote was recorded in four precincts, 47, 73, 83 and 86. Skiffington took the remaining 53 precincts handily, showing special strength in the home town of Manitou Springs. Voters in Manitou's Precincts 69 and 70 gave Skiffington a 295-51 margin over his opponent.

In the absentee voting, Johnson had a slight edge, 73-72.

Car Sales Owner Signs Complaint

Charles W. O'Brien of the C and R Motor Sales, 551 S. 8th St., signed a complaint against a Ft. Carson man, James R. Greenwalt Jr., alleging he had stolen a radio from a car belonging to O'Brien, the sheriff's office said Tuesday.

Deputy Sheriff Bernard Barry reported Greenwalt bought a $195 car from C and R Motor Sales Aug. 6 and paid $70 on account. Sometime later he returned to the lot saying he could not afford to keep up the payments and that another man would take them over.

The second person never appeared and ultimately O'Brien had the car seized at Ft. Carson. He found the radio gone and a pawn ticket for it in the glove department.

O'Brien was told Greenwalt was threatening to sue him for unlawful seizure of the vehicle and accordingly he signed a complaint alleging theft of the radio.

A $[illegible] damage suit was filed in District Court this morning by Maude B. Knight of [illegible] E. Dale St. against the City of Colorado Springs.

The plaintiff alleges that she tripped and fell May 4, 1961, at the intersection of Dale and Dover Streets. She states that the city was negligent as the sidewalk was raised and broken.

He is alleged to have robbed the Loetscher supermarket, 525 W. Colorado Ave., Aug. 7 of last year and made off with $3,400.

The defendant is also alleged to have been responsible for a number of other armed holdups in Colorado and his total bonds now amount to $225,000.

At one time his bondsman was Raymond D. Buckles, former operator of the Crest Bonding Agency. Buckles is now in custody in Denver and charged with conspiracy.

Indecent Exposure Act Reported to Police

A 16-year-old girl reported to police Tuesday afternoon a man exposed himself indecently to her and then tried to entice her into his car.

Police Detective Thomas Kosley said that the girl told him the incident occurred while she was walking in the 800 block of South Nevada Avenue at 5 p.m.

The girl said the man pulled into the curb and asked about a street. When she turned to answer him he exposed himself to her, the girl said.

When she kept on walking, the man followed her in his car and attempted to entice her into the vehicle. When she refused to enter the car he made a number of nasty remarks, she said.

Kosley said the man was described as in his late 20's and having dark hair.

Many Other First Ladies Were Targets of Critics

By FRANCES LEWINE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jacqueline Kennedy may find some comfort in recalling that First Ladies before her were targets of criticism, too.

From Martha Washington to the modern era there have been brickbats flying along with the accolades.

Some of the disapproval has been on the personal side, some political.

Amid extravagant praise, for example, Dolly Madison once heard a male critic deride her as "fat, forty, but not fair."

Down through the years, anything from Martha's hats to Mamie Eisenhower's bangs has been fair game.

Eleanor Roosevelt, First Lady longer than any of the others, probably was criticized the most.

The more a First Lady does, the more comment, some critical, there is likely to be.

As the latest target, Mrs. Kennedy drew the ire of a Baptist minister in Colorado and a London newspaper during her vacation in Ravello, Italy.

The clergyman disapproved of public, photographed appearances in thin suits by the First Lady and her husand, the President. He said they apparently had thrown decorum, dignity and decency overboard.

The newspaper also appealed to Mrs. Kennedy to give up what it called the madness of water skiing with her 4-year-old daughter, Caroline.

This was not the first — and won't be the last—of the criticism Mrs. Kennedy will encounter.

But alongside the storms that have raged about some of her predecessors, the latest seem mild.

One historian reports that Martha Washington quickly learned to be cautious and "careful not to express an opinion on any public question except to intimate friends."

In more recent years, Mrs. Kennedy's predecessors, Mamie Eisenhower, Bess Truman and Eleanor Roosevelt have had their trials, too.

As the wife of the only four-times-elected president, Mrs. Roosevelt was a highly controversial figure, but insisted she simply had to do what she thought was right.

She once said of the White House: "For whatever family or individuals happen to be installed there, it is a difficult place to live."

Critics accused Mrs. Roosevelt of a wide range of faults, including: Stirring up racial hatred, meddling in politics, talking too much, being too informal, and espousing causes. She even became what she called "a phony issue" in her husabnd's campaigns for re-election.

She was once asked what she looked forward to most after many years in the White House.

"Freedom from public notice," she replied.

Not all the criticism was suffered in silence, though. When one columnist declared she used her position as First Lady to interfere in governmental affairs, she called him "a little gnat on the horizon."

Housewifely, bridge-playing Bess Truman firmly held that she was not elected to public office and that the background was her proper place.

Her biggest public ruckus came over accepting an invitation to a tea given by the Daughters of the American Revolution at the time Negro pianist Hazel Scott was denied use of the society's Constitution Hall. Mrs. Roosevelt had resigned from the society in 1939 to protest exclusion of Negro soprano Marian Anderson from the same stage.

Mrs. Truman took this public stand: "I deplore any action which denies artistic talent an opportunity to express itself because of prejudice against race or origin." But she went to the tea, having previously agreed to do so.

When a reporter asked if she would accept a similar invitation in the future, Mrs. Truman replied: "Why not?"

Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., the husband of Miss Scott, promptly pronounced: "From now on Mrs. Truman is the Last Lady."

Mrs. Eisenhower's health became something of an issue when Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler said he had heard it might influence the President's decision whether to run for re-election in 1956.

President Eisenhower commented at a news conference that while his wife wasn't as strong and robust as some people, "she is in good health."

When Eisenhower made a detour of some 2,000 miles to give his wife, her sister and a friend, a plane ride to a health and beauty resort at Phoenix, Ariz., in 1958, reporters asked press secretary James Hagerty for justification of the use of an Air Force plane on such a mission.

"I think when the President of the United States wants to go anywhere with his wife, that is his business and nobody else's," Hagerty snapped.

Most First Ladies have managed to take their seemingly inevitable criticism philosophically.

Mrs. Truman once told a reporter she didn't really mind it.

"I always learn something about myself," she smiled.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture says that Americans are drinking more fruit juices and drinks, and spending less on them. In June, 1962, purchases were 19 million cases, up four per cent from June 1961. The bill for June '62: $58.8 million, or seven per cent less than June 1961.

Speedy Approval Predicted for Reserves Callup

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate leaders today foresaw little trouble in winning approval of President Kennedy's request for standby authority to call up 150,000 military reservists.

Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., of the Senate Armed Services Committee which unanimously approved the request Monday, said he hoped to get the measure up for Senate action Thursday. Russell and Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said they knew of no major opposition.

The House Armed Services Committee will consider the proposal Thursday, with Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, scheduled to testify. They testified for more than two hours at a closed session of the Senate group.

The resolution is designed to let the President act if developments worsen in such trouble spots as Cuba and Berlin while Congress is out of session. It would give him authority to:

1. Call up 150,000 ready military reservists to active duty for one year.

2. Extend for one year the enlistments or service periods of any member of the armed services or National Guard whose tour of duty expires before Feb. 28, 1963—about six weeks after the new Congress convenes.

The Senate committee made a few minor changes to insure that reservists and units called up during a similar emergency last year would not be recalled. However, individual members of such units could be called if they had not served in the previous call-up.

New Model Traffic Code Is Adopted

DENVER (AP) — A new model traffic code for Colorado municipalities was adopted today by the Highway Safety Council.

Atty. Gen. Duke W. Dunbar, the council chairman, said the action was unanimous.

Dunbar described it as an updating of a code worked out a decade ago.

He said it is in line with legislation adopted during the past few years and with court decisions affecting municipal traffic laws.

City councils, Dunbar said, now can adopt the model code by reference without having to pay for legal advertising of the entire code.

Renewed Violence Is Reported in Farmers' Strike

CORNING, Iowa (AP) — There were new reports of violence against truckers today as National Farmers Organization President Oren Lee Staley called upon members to tighten their livestock holding action.

In an address to about 1,200 persons attending an NFO-sponsored dinner Monday in Mason City, Staley said the holding action has been more effective than expected.

"The time has come when we must tighten down our holding action because we are very close to victory," Staley told the group.

He said hog receipts continue to lag far behind normal in the holding action aimed at forcing processors to sign contracts guaranteeing farmers higher prices for their livestock. Staley conceded cattle receipts were somewhat higher Monday but contended nearly half the receipts were stockers and feeders.

Gov. Elmer L. Andersen said he received a report of tires being shot off a livestock truck near Slayton, Minn., early today. Sheriff William H. Neumann furnished a convoy to accompany the truck to the Iowa line with its cargo of cattle destined for the Sioux City stockyards.

Andersen termed the violence likely the work of irresponsible individuals seeking either to help or discredit the NFO.

Four drivers of farm trucks reported they were fired at near Bowling Green, Mo., Monday night as they hauled livestock to the St. Louis market.

Sheriff Lester Plackmeyer said there were marks of shotgun pellets on the fenders and doors of the trucks, and one truck had a flat tire.

Another Refugee Swims to Safety In Berlin Escape

BERLIN (AP) — A 21-year-old man swam 200 yards to the safety of West Berlin today despite gunfire from East German police.

The dramatic escape—the fifth of the day—occurred at 8:30 a.m. near the old Reichstag building.

Jumping from the Marschall Bridge, the young man swam along the east bank of the Spree River, apparently escaping detection until he was ready to swim across. Four shots were fired at him, West Berlin police said, but all missed.

In Defense of Locke

We rise to defend John Locke.

A current writer, blessed with more than adequate opportunities to exercise his thinking facilities, has recently penned the following assertion in a periodical of circulation among the educationists:

"Locke does not concern himself with man's perfection or his obligations to his fellows or to society, but just insists on man's freedom from interference with his life and property. Consequently, his conception of man is basically hedonistic, with the nature of man being solely that of a property and pleasure-gathering agent, who, of course, ought not to interfere with his fellows' similar pursuits. This ethic does not inspire one to seek his own moral perfection, or his brother's or society's perfection as a good in itself. The only social impulse is to improve the instruments of protecting one's own freedom."

The author, one John P. McCarthy, should have reasoned more severely. Basic to his criticism is the belief that man's real nature is not discernible and therefore that he may interpret man's nature as he pleases, and also, of course, that John Locke was merely engaged in the same idle pursuit of interpeting man's nature as HE saw it, and therefore, since man's nature isn't discernible, let's set up the finest metaphysic of man possible, and stick with it.

Fortunately for civilization and the human race, John Locke was cutting a little closer to fact than Mr. McCarthy. Man has a real nature. By now, a great many savants have come to agree that there are certain facts relative to man's nature which can be recognized and understood.

Among these facts is the outstanding central concept of independent cerebration and independent relative value judgment. Additionally, it is now rather thoroly demonstrated that man is a rational being and does what he does for reasons, good or bad. Therefore, since Mark Twain, and certainly since von Mises, most of us have come to recognize that man is inner-directed (Vance Packard to the contrary notwithstanding) and that he does what he does because he wishes to gain pleasure or to prevent pain.

This happens to be true. If Mr. McCarthy wishes man to be other than this, he had best begin exploring outer space in search of a new species.

But perhaps we should examine the word "pleasure" to see what is implied.

Hedonism is usually defined as applying to a school of thought which says that man is motivated only for pleasure. The implication, however, gives us a narrow interpretation of pleasure. As hedonism is employed, it appears to relate more to entertainment than pleasure. And the two are miles apart. If Mr. McCarthy means that man is only motivated for entertainment, then we are on his side and not opposed. But this is not what John Locke, nor his modern followers, said or intended.

Factually, man seeks pleasure (not entertainment) in the broadest possible sense. He works that he may have the wherewithal to live. His work is a pleasure compared to not having the wherewithal to live. Since he voluntarily elects to work, he is acting thru the application of his reason. He is doing what he wants to do. And the freedom to do as one wants to do is pleasure.

This is true in every act of man's life. He takes what he has (energy, time, money, property) and he exchanges what he has in an anticipation of gain.

That is to say he trades what he has in hopes that what he obtains in exchange will give him greater satisfaction (pleasure) than what he parted with to get it.

Mr. McCarthy contends that this rules out man's more noble sentiment of doing something for others. But it not only does not rule this out, it confirms the sentiment. The reason a man does something for another is because it gives him pleasure. If man seeks his own moral perfection, it is because such seeking gives him pleasure.

Indeed, the very reason Mr. McCarthy seeks to impugn John Locke is because such effort gives him pleasure, which means that Mr. McCarthy is precisely as hedonistic as John Locke and for the same reason.

It is this kind of surface thinking, as exemplified in McCarthy, so prevalent in so many of our schools and colleges, which gives us pain, which we seek to alleviate by resorting to the pleasure of showing it to be surface-thin and spurious.

We trust that Mr. McCarthy, who in many ways has found pleasure in improving himself, will find additional pleasure in continuing the process.

But we are still not finished with the quoted paragraph and continue our comment below.

It's the Guns

The difference between the men in government and the men out of government does not reside in the men. It resides in the guns which the men in government have legal access to use.

No Validity In Forced Contract

We were particularly intrigued with the statement of Mr. McCarthy (see above) relative to his objection to John Locke on the basis of Mr. Locke's neglect of man's "obligation to society."

What we are concerned with is the real nature of man. . .the facts of the case.

We are not trying to contend that man may not properly assume an obligation if he desires. And certainly we cannot object if a man feels that he has an obligation, even to such an amorphous and meaningless collective noun as the term, society, suggests.

The danger in Mr. McCarthy's point of view relates to the fact that if it is assumed that man has an automatic obligation to society. . .surely the inference is plain enough in the McCarthy reasoning. . .then it follows that man is not man, but rather he is automan, an automatic man compelled by virtue of his existence to serve the collective.

But does such an automatic obligation arise from things as they are? Certainly, it does not. What IS man's automatic obligation? It takes someone in society, a "leader" or an "interpreter," to outline precisely what the obligation may or may not be.

In short, no man can possibly discover what his obligation IS, he can only decide how and to what extent he wishes to obligate himself, or he may decide on the basis of some other person's judgment in society, letting the other person obligate him.

If we assume the former, then man is free to obligate himself to society according to his own wisdom and his own ability in the matter. We have no objection to this point of view since it leaves man in harmony with his own real nature and shows him to be an actor in the drama, not merely the victim of some other person's play.

But the second alternate, the belief that a "leader" or some person in society may declare the extent and character of some other person's obligation, is to remove the automatic part of the obligation and to make it a matter of the dictates of some presumably superior member of the species. And this defies the nature of things as they are since nature has not provided us with some men who are so gifted that they may properly direct the affairs of others.

Thus, if Mr. McCarthy believes that man may or may not obligate himself to society, and to whatever extent he may choose, then we are back with the original posit, to wit that man does what he does for pleasure. If man obligates himself to society it is because by so doing he gains pleasure. And if he does not, it is because by not doing so, he gains pleasure — or at least prevents pain.

But, if Mr. McCarthy intends that we follow the implication of his writing and assume that man is AUTOMATICALLY obligated, it follows that someone in society other than ourselves must tell us precisely what our obligation is, since "society" has no voice and no way of making known the fact of such obligation.

And now we are really in an Irish fog. Who is to tell us what our "automatic" obligation is? Were it truly automatic, we would need no one. But there is no such "automatic" device in nature. A person must be fo[illegible] who can tell us this, a pe[illegible] can part the ve[illegible] mystery. Who[illegible] Mr. McCarthy perhaps? Or Mr. Kennedy? Or Mr. Goldwater? Or some other person yet to be named? Are any of these persons so divinely equipped by nature that they can properly and with accuracy tell us precisely what this obligation is that we are duty bound to accept?

There is no evidence in history or in nature to give us encouragement at this point.

We are left to suppose that Mr. McCarthy WISHES that things were the way he says they are. Ah, how real to the wisher are the figments of his dreams.

But, upon reflection, we must conclude that we do not wish to follow Mr. McCarthy's dreams in this regard. We prefer to cling to what facts we have.

The facts of the case reveal that a debt or obligation is always something that is self-assumed. Indeed, even the law upholds this interpretation by showing that a contract make under duress, that is, under the threat of force by another, is wholly invalid.

Thus, when someone in society attempts to tell us what our obligations to society are, we are free to reject such attempt. And if such obligation is, in fact, foisted on us by force, then, by the law itself, we may call such obligating a contract made under duress which is null and void.

Foreign Policy Debate

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Perhaps for the first time since 1933 a genuine foreign policy debate has been continuous in the United States Senate. There was a possibility years ago of such a debate when Senator Arthur Vandenberg, of Michigan, led the Republicans, but Vandenberg, an isolationist with astounding suddenness, joined the forces of the internationalists.

Curiously, in the present debate it is a Democrat whose voice is most constantly raised against a foreign policy which has often produced marked failure. Senator Thomas J. Dodd of Connecticut, a Democrat, has, in his first term in the Senate, made an astonishingly significant reputation for scholarship and profound penetration into foreign policy. Usually, a first term senator does not have too much to say and more often he does not say anything controversial because he is not sure of himself. Surprisingly, Senator Dodd has stepped forward as a positive personality, strong in his convictions, certain of his purposes.

Recently, Lyle Munson, who runs "The Bookmailer, Inc.," edited and published a number of Senator Dodd's speeches in a book which covers a wide range of subjects.

Describing our national purpose Senator Dodd said:

"To the peoples of Europe patriotism has its roots in the past and represents a love of all the similarities and things shared in common with their countrymen. But we in America, in the early years of our nation, had no past. We had more differences than similarities. Our people had no common history except that of escape from the histories of a score of other nations.

"We had no common religion except a heritage of seeking religious freedom. We had no common tongue, no common nationality, no national music or art, no folk tales, no national literature except for the political writings of our founding fathers.

"All that we had in common with which to mold a united nation, was a new set of ideas, of attitudes, of institutions, untried, unproved, yet having the universality of expressing the ancient hopes and yearnings of mankind for a better and fuller life. And we shared together a new virgin continent upon which we could try out our experiment."

The question then is, what is this experiment to produce? Surely, if the American experiment is to mean nothing more than a high standard of living — more automobiles, more ice-boxes, more steaks — the terrific cost in human effort was not worthwhile. Senator Dodd answers:

"That the state exists to serve man and that man's liberty, his property, his family and his individual rights are above and beyond the reach of the state;

"That every man should have a fair chance to succeed or to fail on his own, a square deal, a clear field.

"That every man should be able to speak his piece without fear or reprisal.

"That every man should have an equal voice in choosing those who govern him. . ."

Writing of our enemy, Senator Dodd wrote:

"Perhaps the most popular phrase of those who minimize the evils of Communism is that we cannot look at the world scene in terms of 'black and white,' which of course carries the implication that both the Free World and the Communist World are at fault for the present danger and that each side has its good points and its bad points. I willingly concede our bad points, but I have never been able to discover the good points of communism."

Speaking of anti-semitism, Senator Dodd said:

"By their statements both Marx and Hitler have made it clear that any movement which sets out to persecute Judaism inevitably winds up by rejecting and persecuting Christianity.

"As free men who worship God we cannot ignore the existence of anti-semitism, even on a small scale, in this country or in other countries. We cannot ignore the desecration of a single synagogue, any more than we can ignore the taking of a single life."

This has so often been proved true. In the universal secularism which is attacking the minds of men in this particular era, an attack on any religious concept only too often is an attack upon all religions of God. Anti-semitism is, for instance, being most fiercely propagated at the present time in Soviet Russia and in most of the countries of the Soviet Universal State. Soviet Russia is an utterly secular country pursuing the mandate that religion is an opiate for the people. Destroying the Jews, as a religion, can only be a forerunner of closing down all Christian churches as unnecessary and purposeless.

In grasping this essential characteristic of the Communist struggle for supremacy Senator Dodd has made a valuable contribution to the discussion of this subject.

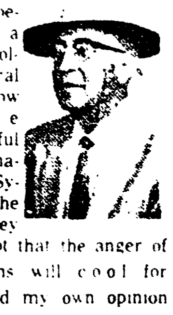
MAKING QUITE AN IMPRESSION ON THE WORLD

The Old Mountaineer

Thoughts by The Wayside

By FRANK McDONOUGH JR.



When one's ire is aroused, or when one gets too hot under the collar, it should be the rule to allow a cooling-off period before writing a letter or a column. Several days have now passed since the disgraceful tirade of Senator Stuart Symington in the Humphrey hearing. I doubt that the anger of good Americans will cool for some time, and my own opinion is that Senator Symington owes an abject apology to the Senate, to the American people and to former Secretary Humphrey. According to the explosive harangue of the senator, as it appeared in all its brutal nakedness on TV, there is something sacrosant about the status of a United States senator which might place him just a notch above God in the scheme of things. It proves that an individual given some political power and beginning to feel his oats, reaches out for more and more power and in time in his own mind places himself upon an untouchable pedestal far above the level of his constituents.

Disgraceful scenes and vicious flares of temper have occurred in the past in the halls of Congress. The most famous of these incidents took place in the Senate in 1856. Senator Sumner, of Massachusetts, one of the most brilliant and competent members of the Senate, had delivered a fiery speech on the "crime against Kansas," in which he criticized Senator Butler of South Carolina for his attitude on the slavery question. A few days later Sumner was at work at his desk in the Senate entirely unaware of the approach of Preston Brooks, who was a member of the House from South Carolina and a nephew of Senator Butler. Brooks crept up the aisle to Sumner's desk and without any warning crashed a heavy cane upon Sumner's head, and continued to beat him over the head until Sumner fell unconscious to the floor. A committee of the House investigating the affair recommended that Brooks be expelled, but upon a strictly sectional partisan vote the necessary two thirds majority failed to expel him. The unprovoked and cowardly assault caused great indignation thruout the North, but met universal approval in the South. It is rather unexplainable how people who boasted of their chivalry and fair play could approve an act of cowardice such as the assault by Brooks on a defenseless man. It is just as unexplainable how anyone witnessing Symington's tirade could join in the faint ripple of applause which was heard when he stalked out of the hearing room in high dudgeon.

A careful search thru the national Constitution does not disclose that there is any special halo conferred upon the heads of our representatives in Congress. It is true that they are free from arrest while in the congressional halls, and on their way to and fro, unless they have been guilty of treason, commission of a felony or a breach of the peace. Senator Symington's outburst as it appeared upon the silver screen came very close to being a breach of the peace. They also have immunity and freedom of liability for any speech they may make or anything they may say in debate. They may in this fashion call names, commit slander, divert from the truth or otherwise be free lances in conduct which would submit them to liability in ordinary civilian life. Some members of our national legislature occasionally take advantage of this immunity and dare to say things which normally would earn them a deserved punch in the jaw.

I have talked with many members of various fraternal organizations, and I find that it is almost invariable that one of the basic tenets of such groups is courtesy. We have gone far afield in the exercise of that virtue. Courtesy should not be considered a virtue; it should be a basic necessity of everyday living. But the day when a gentleman would give up his seat in a crowded bus or street car to a lady seems to have been discarded. The boy friend of today rarely uses common helpful courtesy to his girl friend as they pile into the hot-rod jalopy. Try to get into a subway car in New York and witness the pushing and shoving and elbowing that takes place in disgraceful fashion. If this is progress of our civilization it is high time that we stop progress in its tracks and retrace our steps back into the paths of decency. Courtesy fades as modern cocktail parties progress to the bleary eyed stage. Courtesy disappears in the shuffle of modern-day haste. Courtesy could well become a habit which would enrich the life of today and no phase of other progress would be lost. Senator Symington might well go back into a course of basic training in courtesy.

Mr. Humphrey may be guilty of heinous crimes. I do not know. But if he is to be tried before the public eye, he is entitled under all our basic laws to a fair and impartial trial, with the right to be heard and to be represented by counsel. The tyranny of George the Third in just such matters, brought about the rebellion of the colonies which gave us basic rights and has made us the greatest humanitarian nation in the history of man. Senator Symington, and any other congressional members who may be so inclined, should be warned in no uncertain terms that the people of America will not permit tyranny to arise again in our midst. And this same warning should go out to all public servants including the president, the heads of bureaus, members of the cabinet and all members of Congress. The torch of liberty was not lighted upon this continent for the purpose of being extinguished by the acts and ambitions of selfish, thoughtless men. The stature of the common citizen is paramount in our scheme of life.

LIBERTY

If the true spark of religious and civil liberty be kindled, it will burn. Human agency cannot extinguish it. Like the earth's central fire, it may be smothered for a time, but at some time or other, in some place or other, the volcano will break out and flame up to heaven.

PARTY CHIEFS

To the Editor:

In Saturday's Leisure Time Magazine I noticed a picture of six well-known NBC TV announcers and commentators and upon further scrutiny I found that they were to be the key to a new TV program starting September 2nd.

Confessing that I waste too much time looking at the overwhelming number of programs which are not worth it, I was curious to see what this program would be like. To my regret it was not good; as a matter of fact it affected me so adversely that I had to turn it off. From the advance notice in Leisure Time I presumed that its purpose was to inform the citizen that he might be able to make a better choice at the coming election. Maybe it did but I must admit that it wasn't pleasant listening. I'll not likely be tuning in future programs.

In this case Chet Huntley and Dave Brinkley interviewed the chairmen of the Republican and Democratic parties. At no time was any effort made to bring out the truth. In fact it was an hour in which the personal opinions of the heads of the two opposing political parties were exposed to those who would listen. The confusion the points of view developed became so intense that by the time I arose from my easy chair to turn it off I was convinced that their purpose was to scare the living daylights out of the voter and then hope that he would vote for their particular party as their savior.

This very day the newspapers are publishing the fact that there is a three percent increase in crime in America. What can we expect when political leaders in both parties cannot or will not present the whole truth and nothing but the truth? This subterfuge and deceit is bound to filter all thru the populace. It seems to me that there may be some lack of knowledge on the part of men in top political positions but it is more logical that they are controlled by the system and therefore are not free agents.

DISARMAMENT PLAN

To the Editor:

The former general counsel for the U.S. Senate Internal Security Committee, Dr. Robert Morris, is considered one of the foremost authorities on Communist tactics in America. Recently in his column "Around the World," entitled "The Trap Is Set," he pointed out we have pleaded and begged the Communists to accept our "disarmament plan" which is the dream of the Fabian Socialist group to transfer our U.S. Army, Navy and Air Corps, together with the control of all military power, to the United Nations Peace Force (See State Dept. publication No. 7277 "Freedom From War" and the Rostow Report). Many feel it never was intended to be an honest "disarmament plan" but rather a cleverly designed "trap" for the unconditional surrender of our U.S. sovereignty to the Communists and the "so-called" neutral countries by the Fabian Socialists now in control of our government and news media.

It would be discreetly prudent on our part to review the complete Communist dominance of military authority in the United Nations Security Council (World Police Force) from its very inception to date as follows:

Secretary of the U.N. - Security Council — 1946-1949, Arkady S. Sobelov U.S.S.R. 1957-1960 A. Dobrynin U.S.S.R. 1950-1953 Konstantine Zinchenko U.S.S.R. 1960-1962 George P. Arkadev U.S.S.R. 1954-1957 Ilya Tchernyshev U.S.S.R. 1962 Eugene D. Kiselev U.S.S.R.

It is plainly apparent that Communist Russia (U.S.S.R.) has not allowed any other member nation to sit in the "driver's seat" of the "U.N. Police Department" and there has been little or no objection from our U.S. Congress. This is definite proof we must elect to Congress only proven, courageous patriots if we care to retain our U.S. sovereignty and be a free nation.

It is, therefore, imperative that we should carefully check the background of all political candidates and be convinced that those we vote for are "genuine" patriots and not just pseudo-patriots acting the part to steal our vote. It has often been said that "bad politicians are elected by good citizens who do not vote or do not vote intelligently."

Allen-Scott Report

Justice Frankfurter

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Ex-Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter is making painfully slow progress in recovering from the two strokes he suffered early last spring — one suddenly late in the afternoon in his office, the other in the hospital several weeks later.

This stroke has never been announced. A few weeks ago the 79-year-old jurist returned to his apartment in historic Georgetown, but has not left it since.

His left side is still paralyzed, altho he now has partial use of his arm. For a while Frankfurter was unable to feed himself. He continues to speak haltingly and has lapses of memory. He is allowed to sit up in a wheelchair but spends most of his time in bed.

Lately, Frankfurter's doctor has banned visitors.

The only regular caller is former Secretary of State Dean Acheson, the jurist's oldest and closest friend. Mrs. Frankfurter has explained to other friends that the physician feels there have been too many visitors, and her husband needs rest and quiet.

That's what she told a congressional leader who has known Frankfurter for more than 30 years and asked to see him.

During President Kennedy's brief visit several weeks ago, no mention was made of Frankfurter's retirement.

Several days before the President's call, he had sustained a stinging defeat in the House in the rejection of his farm bill — which the Senate had approved by a decisive margin. The President referred to this setback, and ruefully observed that one of his painful discoveries was the "limited powers of the presidency."

"A President can plan and formulate and propose," he said, "but all too often it is Congress that disposes. Sooner or later, every president unhappily learns that lesson, and I've learned it sooner."

BIG QUESTION MARK

Chief Justice Earl Warren, whose relations with Frankfurter have been coolly formal, has never heard from him about his condition or plans.

Only one of Frankfurter's colleagues has seen him since he was stricken in March — Justice John Harlan, appointed from New York in 1955 by President Eisenhower. Frankfurter, noted for his feuding with other justices, has been on cordial terms with Harlan.

One of Frankfurter's two clerks has accepted a job with a large law firm.

The ailing jurist will be 80 on November 15, and in 1958 had a heart attack that kept him off the bench several months. The oldest member of the high tribunal, Frankfurter was eligible to retire for years. He was appointed in 1939 by President Roosevelt.

Federal judges can go on the "inactive roll" with full pay at 65 after 15 years' service, or at 70 after 10 years on the bench. Supreme Court justices receive $35,000 a year.

There are now five retired justices — Stanley Reed, Ky., named by President Roosevelt; Harold Burton, O., appointed by President Truman, Sherman Minton, Ind., named by Truman; and Charles Whittaker, Kan., appointed by President Eisenhower; and Frankfurter.

The shocking toll of heart disease is graphically shown by the following report by Dr. Ralph Knutti, director of the famed National Heart Institute, Bethesda, Md., to the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee, headed by Senator Lister Hill (D-Ala.): "Every minute at least one person dies from heart disease in the U.S., and more than half of all deaths each year are caused by this disease. More Americans are killed by heart disease in four months than were slain in all four years of World War II. Heart disease strikes heavily at all age groups. One-third of all heart deaths are among persons under 65. Heart disease afflicts over 10 million persons, and more than half of them are in their most productive years — 25 to 64. . . The National Heart Institute supports research in heart disease in more than 300 universities and hospitals throughout the country, and more than 2,000 separate research projects are now underway. The theory that high blood cholesterol levels lead to atherosclerosis has not been proved."

SOCIAL WHIRL

Biggest social news around the White House these torrid summer days is that John Jr. is talking. He is almost as loquacious as his blonde sister Caroline. Asked by a visitor where his mother and sister were, young John instantly and briskly replied, "They're away." . . . Altho diplomatic and other social circles are scattered at seashore and other summer resorts, the party circuit is busy as ever and free-loaders have plenty of opportunities to stoke up and liquor up. Two such opportunities were at Independence Day receptions at the Egyptian and Nicaraguan embassies. Both had large buffets but the Nicaraguan party was more popular because alcoholic beverages were served. Also Ambassador Guillermo Sevilla-Sacasa, rotund and genial dean of the diplomatic corps, is a famous host, and the throng of diplomats and other officials had a grand time. . . Jane Auchincloss, half-sister of Mrs. Kennedy is having her debut in famed Newport next summer — exactly as the First Lady did some 15 years ago. However, Jane will be more fortunate than her half-sister in one respect. The latter will give a coming-out tea and dance for her in the White House, a distinction enjoyed by few debutantes.

Coffee is the principal product of the Ivory Coast Republic, which is the third largest coffee producer in the world. But this beverage was not the principal drink at the Ivory Coast's celebration of the second anniversary of its independence from France. What the more than 500 guests concentrated on was the delicious imported French champagne. There was a large coffee urn, but it had few customers, while the two bars were kept busy serving chilled champagne. . .Peace has come to Holland and Indonesia in West New Guinea and also on the Washington social front. It was re-established there by Dutch Minister L. C. Schiff who attended the reception for the 17th anniversary of Indonesia's independence from his country. Feature of the party was Bali dances by members of the embassy staff . . .Pakistan's Minister Mohammed Masood has strikingly demonstrated that a "summer bachelor" can give a highly successful party. His wife and children are escaping Washington's notorious torrid heat at a seaside resort, so the envoy, with the aid of his staff, gave reception featuring delicacies of his homeland. The numerous guests revelled in them, and there were no leftovers. . .The 5-year-old son of Datin Ong Yoke Lin, new ambassador of the Federation of Malaya, already knows exactly what he wants to be. It is definitely not a diplomat. Says the youngster, "I want to be a sheriff, with a big badge and a six-shooter."

HEADACHES MAY LEAD TO EYE EXAM

NEW YORK (AP) — Blinding headaches eventually help many people to see better.

The Better Vision Institute points out that headaches frequently impel people with faulty vision to take eye examinations.

Many persons become aware of seeing defects only when they have some secondary effect, such as headaches. The institute says surveys show some 23 million people who do not wear glasses need them. Annual professional eye examinations are recommended for most adults, whether they wear glasses or not.

Steve Disagrees With Watrous On Tunnel Plan

DENVER (UPI)— Gov. Steve McNichols doesn't agree with the estimate by State Highway Engineer Mark U. Watrous that construction of the Straight Creek tunnel will take at least five years.

The governor said here he thought the state "can cut a year or two" from that estimate on completion of the tunnel through the Continental Divide.

Watrous has said he doubts the tunnel can be completed before 1967 and that unexpected construction problems would require even more time.

"If the Highway Department and Mr Watrous can't do the job," McNichols said, "we may have to get a consulting service and some more help from outside.

"I'm sure we can do it in less time than that."

The governor said every year of delay means a loss of $50 million to $75 million in economic benefits to the state.

Preliminary test drilling of rock formations in the area of the tunnel is under way. A contract for $1.1 million has been awarded to Hubner Construction Co. of Denver for a 1.8-mile approach road on the east end of the tunnel.

The tunnel eventually is to carry four lanes of traffic on Interstate 70 through the Continental Divide at a point north of Loveland Pass on U.S. 6.

Reduced Production Of Corn Is Forecast

WASHINGTON (AP)—The agriculture Department today forecast this year's production of corn for grain at 3,485,030,000 bushels and all wheat at 1,096,476,000 bushels.

The corn estimate is 64,603,000 bushels less than last month's figure of 3,549,633,000 bushels. It compares with last year's crop of 3,624,313,000 bushels and the ten-year (1951-60) average of 3,128,197,000 bushels.

The wheat estimate is 33,459,000 bushels more than last month's forecast of 1,063,017,000 bushels. It compares with 1,234,705,000 last year and 1,128,563,000 for the ten-year average.

About 300 million gross of bottle caps are used each year for capping soft drinks and beer in bottles and cans.

Woman Driver Is Charged With Killing Pedestrian

BRIGHTON (UPI) — Mrs. Joan Price, 34, of Derby, Colo., pleaded innocent Monday to four criminal charges in the traffic death of a 15-year-old boy.

Mrs Price was charged with involuntary manslaughter, hit and run, failure to report an accident and failure to lend aid to an accident victim in the Aug. 2 accident. Danny Houston of Derby was injured fatally when struck by a car in Adams County.

Mrs. Price was arrested when broken glass from a parking light found at the scene was found to be similar to that of the Price car. She said she was driving that night, but did not remember striking a pedestrian.

Her trial was set for Dec. 8.

Foolproof Atom Test Safeguards Demanded

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, demanded today foolproof safeguards against cheating by the Soviet Union as part of any nuclear test ban agreement.

In a Senate speech, Miller tabbed as unfortunate Secretary of State Dean Rusk's statement at Geneva disarmament talks that "the United States does not insist on foolproof arrangements in a disarmament agreement and is ready to share certain risks."

"Let us not gamble with security because of a desire to achieve a disarmament treaty," Miller said, "unless we know for a certainty that we are protected."

He said there is "not the slightest assurance without foolproof inspections" that the Soviet Union would comply with an agreement until the Reds knew they had superiority.

Russia Exploded Atom Bomb in Outer Space

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) —The United States said today that Russia exploded a nuclear device in outer space last year.

U. S. Ambassador Francis T. P. Plimpton denounced the Soviet Union in the U. N. committee on the peaceful uses of outer space for its "crocodile tears" about the dangers to astronauts caused by an American nuclear explosion over the Pacific Ocean this summer.

Soviet Ambassador Platon D. Morozov said Monday that the United States space explosion had endangered the very lives of astronauts by disturbing the Van Allen radiation belt which encircles the earth.

Plimpton told the 28-nation committee that Russia's series of nuclear tests which broke without warning a three-year moratorium last year created a fallout danger to "living, breathing human beings—not just artificial satellites."

"In fact," Plimpton said, "the Soviet Union carried out high altitude nuclear tests during its series which began a year ago. Less than one year ago, the Soviet Union exploded a nuclear weapon in outer space."

Detergents Declared Threat to Water

MORAN, Wyo. (AP) — Unrestricted dumping of household detergents in United States waters may cause damage to fisheries by killing insects which provide food for fish, a researcher for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare said here Monday.

Dr. Eugene W. Surber said 10 days of tests near Cincinnati, Ohio revealed waters in that area had more than three times the necessary amount of detergents in them to kill off certain insect species.

The problem is greatest in streams near the center of the United States, Dr. Surber told an opening-day meeting of the 92nd annual convention of the American Fisheries Society at Jackson Lake Lodge.

Richard S. Croker, Portland, Ore., president of the society, said: "It is our job along with the diplomats and others to wrest the food from the water and make it available to those who need it."

He claimed the world's waters could provide enough protein food to handle the greatest of population explosions.

Jesuit Magazine Hits Anti-Semitism Charge

NEW YORK (AP) —The Jesuit weekly America said today "it is obviously ridiculous" to suggest that the magazine condones any form of anti-Semitic feeling or activity.

That was the magazine's answer to critics who, it said, interpreted America's Sept. 1 editorial as a "veiled" warning to Jews that anti-Semitism would arise if they did not stop pressing to take religion out of the public schools and public life.

In a new editorial in its Sept. 15 issue, the magazine's Roman Catholic editors said they had meant that "the activities of a few militant secularists might boomerang against the Jewish people."

The Sept. 1 editorial questioned whether Leo Pfeffer, general counsel of the American Jewish Congress, and Jewish agencies were qualified to speak in behalf of the entire Jewish community in opposing religious practices in public schools.

Senate Approves Thurgood Marshall For Court Post

By HARRY KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) —The Senate has voted 54 to 16 to confirm Thurgood Marshall as a judge on the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals after Southerners fired a final fusillade in opposition to the Negro lawyer's appointment.

At his New York apartment where his family gathered to celebrate the action Marshall said: "I appreciate the nomination by President Kennedy and the confirmation by the Senate. I will do my very best to live up to their expectations."

The vote Tuesday came after six hours of debate and weeks of hearings on his qualifications for the second highest level judicial post in the land.

Thirty Democrats and 24 Republicans voted to approve the confirmation. The 16 nays were cast by Southern Democrats from nine states opposing civil rights legislation. Two Southerners were absent—Sens. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., and George A. Smathers, D-Fla.

The Dixie group charged that Marshall, former counsel for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, lacked legal experience outside the field of civil rights.

Marshall successfully prosecuted the NAACP's case against school segregation before the Supreme Court.

One leader of the opposition, Sen. Olin D. Johnston, D-S.C., said Marshall has practiced law for "many, many years, in but one narrow field of civil rights."

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., one of several Northern senators pressing for confirmation, told the Senate Marshall is "a man whose reputation in American jurisprudence is clearly established."

Marshall's road to confirmation was long.

The President first submitted his nomination Sept. 23, 1961, four days before Congress adjourned. He resubmitted it Jan. 15 while Marshall was serving on the bench under a recess appointment.

The nomination was finally approved 11 to 4 last Friday by the Senate Judiciary committee, headed by Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., after protracted hearings which drew protests from Marshall's supporters.

Unemployed Violinist Steals Cab; Is Caught

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard Margulies, 20, bearded, unemployed violinist, came here from Bethany, Conn., and hopped into a taxi.

The trouble, police said, was that:

1. He drove off with the cab.
2. The cab was not his.

There was a third difficulty, too. Margulies' first fare was Jose Sierra, owner of the cab.

"Pull over for a minute," Sierra told Margulies shortly after getting into the cab Monday night. "I have to call my wife."

Margulies pulled over. Sierra got out and made a call. Police arrived soon and arrested the Connecticut youth on a charge of grand larceny. They said he had been drinking.

Good Night For Love at County Office

Love walked into the County Office Building about 7 p.m. Tuesday.

It was an unexpected event and surprised election officials extended warm greetings and smiles.

But it was not Love, the man El Paso County voters overwhelmingly designated as the Republican candidate for governor in Tuesday's primary election.

It was a young couple who had come for their marriage license.

And amid the election clatter, Mrs. Jene Bailey, recording supevisor, issued the license to Sharon Lacerte, 2118 McArthur Ave., and Robert Atkins, 1411 W. Kiowa St.

It was a good night for love. And Love.

Everyone Happy as Voting Machines Get First Workout

By GLENN URBAN

El Paso County put its newly-purchased voting machines to the test Tuesday, and most everyone seemed happy about the results.

The machines were purchased during the past year, and the Colorado primary election Tuesday was the first time that the people most directly concerned with the mechanics of voting had a chance to see the results.

The word around the El Paso County Office Building Tuesday night was "fantastic."

Clerical help in the office of Mrs. Harriet Beals, county clerk and recorder, breezed thru their tasks, in contrast to the work that tallying votes meant in past elections.

Precinct poll workers also had an easier time.

The first precinct to report was Falcon, number 77, which turned in its totals at 7 23 p.m., just 23 minutes after the polls closed. The last precinct to report was Lytle - Star, number 87, which reported its figures at 9 21 p m.

The complete tally of election reports for every race, from governor and U. S. senator down to the various precinct races for justice of peace and constable nominations, was wrapped up and ready for reporters at 11 12 p m.

Members of the Colorado Springs press corps were impressed with the simplicity of their jobs this year, and were happy about it.

In past years, reporters have looked forward, not eagerly, to staying up much of the night to get as many returns as possible, then hoping to get the rest of the results as early as possible the next day.

Mrs Beals, and her assistant, Mrs Virginia Goodsell, had the vote tallying organized to a science Tuesday night.

The results were tallied on IBM office machines and a running total was available all night long, with new totals every few minutes as the 87 precincts of the county reported.

The IBM machine reports showed the number of precincts tallied and the totals for each candidate.

The first report to come from the machines was that of the unofficial precinct of the absentee voters. (Among reporters, this report was known as that from the 88th precinct, altho it had number one on the running report.)

In the absentee ballots, John Love jumped off to a quick lead over Dave Hamil in the Republican race for governor nomination. That looked like it might be a trend, and it was.

On the other hand, Robert Johnson was one vote ahead of L. T Skiffington, incumbent, for the Republican nomination for state senator, 73 to 72. That wasn't a trend as Johnson eventually lost by more than 1,000 votes out of less than 10,000 cast.

There were 134 Democratic votes and 147 Republican votes cast by absentee ballot.

When the operators and machines had finished for the night, Democratic totals listed only 87 reports, even with the absentee ballots.

Mrs. Beals explained that the machines had not made a mistake.

The reason for 87 Democratic reports compared to 88 Republican reports was that no Democrats voted in precinct 73, which is located in Pine Valley just south of the Air Force Academy.

Charles L. Smith, chairman of the El Paso County Board of Commissioners said Tuesday night he was very pleased with the efficiency of the voting operation in the county.

"We had only one machine go bad and that didn't actually hurt us," he said.

Smith explained that one machine in Ivywild had a short and burned out an electric motor.

"They called us from there, and I went out to see what could be done. It was simple. We just pulled out the plug and I changed the handle to 'manual', and the machine stayed in use," Smith explained with a grin.

Running results of the election were posted on a huge score board in the public meeting room adjacent to the county commissioners offices on the third floor of the building.

Colorado College students, three young women and one young man, posted the running totals of all candidates. They came by their jobs thru the efforts of Dr. William Hochman, CC history professor.

Altho the reporting was greatly speeded up Tuesday, Mrs Beals and Mrs Goodsell look forward to even greater efficiency in the general election on Nov. 6.

They pointed out that Tuesday was the first time that the machine operators had actually worked on an election, and that all the little imperfections that pop up the first time thru an operation will be smoothed out for the November voting.

By way of comparison, and just as a reminder of the speed with which things moved previously when votes were counted from paper ballots, a Gazette Telegraph reporter called the county clerk of Kit Carson county in Burlington at 11 30 p m. Tuesday for a report on voting there and were told that the tallying was only about half done and would not be completed until today.

Write-in Vote Wins For Sheriff

In a modern day political rarity, 390 Teller County Democrats went to the polls Tuesday to write in the name of Sheriff Rufus Jones as their candidate for re-election this fall.

The write-in ballots gave Jones a 118 vote margin over his opponent Bill H Rogers, whose name appeared on the Democratic ticket.

Jones who has been sheriff of Teller County for 12 years, announced earlier this year he would not run for re-election, and his fellow party members designated Rogers, his undersheriff, as candidate.

As a result, Rogers' name was the only one on the Democratic ballot opposite the office of sheriff.

Jones later changed his mind, however, and decided to run on a write-in basis. The colorful and popular sheriff managed to corral the necessary votes and is now considered a heavy favorite over his Republican opponent, Dohn Turpin, who received 122 votes in Tuesday's primary.

The heaviest vote in predominantly Democratic Teller County was for U S Sen John A Carroll, who was unopposed for re-election. He tallied 594 votes.

Mrs Ruth Thomas, county clerk and recorder, also received a high number of votes, tallying 592 in her unopposed candidacy for re-election.

On the Republican ticket Rep J Edgar Chenoweth led all other candidates with a total vote of 157.

The Teller County GOP gave Colorado Springs attorney a sizeable 133-35 margin over his opponent, David Hamil.

Following are the complete unofficial Teller County returns.

Academy Chapel to Be Open To Public on Colorado Day

Leaks and all, the Air Force Academy Chapel will be open to the public for the first time on Colorado Day, Saturday, Sept. 22.

The controversial chapel, central point on the architectural scale at the nation's newest military academy, still has not been officially accepted by the Air Force because of leakes between the towering aluminum spires.

Nevertheless, the public will get its first chance to inspect the dramatic chapel at an open house planned at the academy marking its first football game in the new Falcon Stadium.

Beginning at 8 30 a m., these buildings will be open Fairchild Hall, the main academic and library building, Mitchell Hall, the dinning hall, Arnold Hall, cadet reception center, the cadet gymnasium, the planetarium, and the chapel.

Colorado Day visitors can also watch a parade of the entire 2,500-man Cadet Wing beginning at 10 a m. on the parade grounds. Then planetarium demonstrations are scheduled for 8 30, 9 30, 10 and 10 30 a m.

Mitchel Hall will be open only from 8 30 to 10 30 a m.

Fairchild Hall, seldom seen by the general public, will have a total of six areas open for public inspection. Laboratory exhibits and demonstrations will be open on the second floor, classrooms and television classrooms on the fourth floor.

The Academy Library, altho physically separated from the academic building on the terrazzo level, is actually a part of Fairchild. The two sections are joined beneath the surface. Third floor of the library will be open.

A behavorial science display and movie has been set up for the public on the second floor, B-ring.

Laboratory exhibits in chemistry, fine arts, physics, aeronautics, electrical engineering, mechanics, and analog computer operation, can be found on the second floor of Fairchild Hall, rings A through H.

Closed circuit TV classrooms will be open on the fourth floor. They can be reached by taking the east elevators to the fourth floor and turning left.

Also on the fourth floor, general purpose classrooms are set for inspection. From 9:45 until noon, lectures on the third floor or terrazzo level are to be open to the public.

Starting at 11 a.m., barbecue lunch will be served in the wooded areas north and south of Falcon Stadium. For $1 patrons will be served a generous slab of beef, cole slaw, beans, cake, and a cold drink or coffee. Location of the areas will be marked by large colored balloons flying overhead.

Final events on the pre-game schedule will be a march-on of the Cadet Wing at 1:10, and a fly-over by the Colorado Air National Guard F-100's just before kick-off.

Visitors entering the Academy by the north gate during the open house on the 22nd, will be directed west on road 10 to the Harmon Hall area. Officials suggest they start their tour at the planetarium, then visit adjacent Arnold Hall. A short walk will take them to the chapel. The cadet gym—one of the most modern athletic plants in the country—can be seen on the drive back to the Fairchild area.

Traffic entering the south gate during the open house will be routed first to Fairchild Hall. Visitors should tour Fairchild and Mitchell Hall, then drive to Harmon Hall, stopping at the cadet gym on the way.

Signs will be posted to direct drivers, and Air Policeman will be on duty.

First Glimpse of Toddler Fashion for Autumn

NEW YORK (NEA) Some little girls are instinctively feminine just as others are tomboys right up to their early teens.

The instinctively feminine little girl takes naturally to party clothes, wee white gloves, shiny patent leather shoes, lace and ruffles. She may be no angel but she is born with a certain flair for fashion.

Catering to this intuitive feeling about clothes are wee fashions which include such unlikely bits as black velveteen "at-home" slacks with lace trim to be worn with a white embroidered "angel top." Not much pant and not much top, to be sure, for a 2-year-old but the idea's there.

The washable velveteens in jewel colors are likely to appeal both to a little girl and to her mother. Because they display an intense streak of practicality.

There are lots of jumpers and jumper variations in small fashions this fall. And many plaids and lots of pleats. In any case, the severity of the jumper is invariably relieved by a pretty white top, often trimmed in lace or ruffles, or both.

Many small dresses show a high yoke coupled with a very full skirt. After all, a 2-year-old has no waist [illegible] look very well in a high yoke. Or [illegible] with matching pinafore.

How Smart Looking Can You Be?

You can be a [illegible] seamstress and turn out unimaginative dresses. Or you can lack sewing background and put together a smart looking outfit.

The secret, according to Miss Joan Messmore, fashion-coordinator for Bates Fabrics, Inc., New York, is an elusive little thing called "style."

To achieve style in dressmaking is the ultimate aim of every home sewer. It can be learned by observation and study, she believes.

"Style is difficult to analyze, since it is an expression of individuality," she points out. "Yet, ask yourself these questions: What is your taste? Do you like highly styled clothes or subdued fashions? How do you combine your taste with lines suited to your figure? What are the finishing touches that set this dress apart from ordinary ones? Unusual buttons? Special seaming? All this adds up to style."

Shoe Wardrobe Now Essential

The days of the all purpose shoe are gone and almost forgotten. For men as well as for women, there is a winter shoe and a summer shoe. There is footwear for an active daytime existence, and another type for evening dress. A week-end in the country, or a backyard barbecue, or a cocktail at the country club each make their own demands in footwear as in other items of apparel.

Podiatrists welcome the change from high to low, [illegible] strengthens the foot muscles. Wearing a heavy soled shoe on a cold or wet day and a lighter one in balmy sunshine is recommended.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

He's Cantankerous

DEAR ABBY: My husband won't go to the grocery store to shop with me and he won't tell me what he wants to eat. He says he doesn't want to feel like he is in a restaurant ordering up what he wants. Yet he fusses about what I fix. When I ask him what he wants for lunch or dinner (he is retired) he says, "Just anything" — and if I [illegible] he says [illegible] for me, you can throw it out." He never gives me a clue even as to what he would like, but he expects me to have it on hand when I don't even know what it is. Have you a solution? I am 66 but feel like 100. He is 69 and acts like two. Thank you. —DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: Don't ask him what he wants—just go ahead and dish it up. If he's hungry he'll eat it. I suspect he enjoys squawking more than eating.

DEAR ABBY: I am a woman of 55. I have been corresponding with a widower of 60 who lives in Kentucky. We have never met. He sent me a ticket to come down to see him as we have talked about marriage in our letters. My neighbor lady, who is also single, wants to go with me. She says she will pay her own way. You don't think she would try to take him away from me, do you? She is very good company, but I don't know if I could trust her. —KENTUCKY BOUND

DEAR KENTUCKY BOUND: A wise chick doesn't ask a rabbit to watch her carrots. Go alone.

DEAR ABBY: We try to teach our children the responsibilities of handling money by sending them to make small purchases, such as a loaf of bread or a quart of milk. It takes them forever to get waited on because the clerks wait on everyone else first. I have seen young people pushed aside, treated rudely and ignored in many stores. Clerks have even told youngsters to "step aside" until all adults are waited on. What can be done about it? —CONCERNED ADULT

DEAR CONCERNED: When you witness a clerk treating a young person rudely, speak up. And if you encounter any resistance, see the manager. I am sure the reason many young people start taking things without paying for them is because they have difficulty being waited on.

What's New In Sweaters?

You'll be "classic" this year in your choice of sweaters if you follow the trend of fashion.

This traditional style is characterized by a flat, less bulky stitch, narrow conservative trim, and a revival of classic patterns such as Argyle and Blazer stripes.

Bulky sweaters are still high fashion though, and promise to remain a top favorite. One in particular has grown in popularity—that's the "Links & Links" texture. The West Coast, always a leader in sharp-looking sweaters, has taken this design to its heart and adopted it as its own.

The six button cardigan sweater ranks among the highest in popularity. It carries self piping and contrasting trimming.

You'll see more and more of what is called the zip-crew style. The zip-crew is a crew neck with full length zipper closing.

As for colors, they too, trend toward the classical. Camel, Olive, Blue, Grey, Heather and Taupe are all favorites. White, course is always in fashion.

Of particular interest to the shopper is the growing availability of a new sweater blending natural man-made fibers. It is a 65-35 wool and Eastman Kodel polyester fiber blend produced to make easy-care sweaters.

The polyester fiber gives the sweater its hand and machine washability and dryability. It controls shrinkage and makes blocking unnecesary. The wool Kodel blend also offers resistance to matting and pilling.

SHORT EDITION—Mink is exciting in any length. Mr. John believes especially Tourmaline mink which has an aura all its own, which decrees a slick silhouette.

Roxane Says Suit Jackets Are Shorter

The woman who has everything, including informed taste, is frankly the woman who concerns Roxane. Clothes chosen with discrimination as beautiful possessions and worn in the surroundings of signed furniture and important pictures must reflect fashion changes but reject gimmicks. Their quality must be as subtly apparent as their line and color are right. These elements dominate Roxane's thinking far more than catch-word themes.

For fall 1962 Roxane makes a point of fresh youthfulness and figure-consciousness summed up in our neat, clear-cut Little Pyramid outline which opens out in any easy hemline. The waistline is normal and persuasively small. Suit jackets are shorter, gently incurved at the front and straight and narrow at the back.

Coats carry out the Little Pyramid silhouette with a quiet sense of fit and slightly heightened bosom and armhole.

Superimposed on the basic crispness of the silhouette are many romantic overtones: petal skirts, borders of fur, a new floating back effect, and embroideries

HINTS FROM Heloise

BY HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

After using rubber gloves, especially the fabric lined ones, remove a cardboard tube from a box of foil or waxed paper and cut it in two. Place these tubes inside the gloves.

Leave the gloves [illegible] on a work counter instead of putting them in a drawer. They will be free of odor and moisture and will last much longer.

Dear Heloise:

You may be [illegible] but [illegible] I am! I love [illegible] printing our personal [illegible] which [illegible] gold.

There has been [illegible] on the drainboards. Many [illegible] in older homes and would [illegible] more delicate than any we have ever shown. Necklines are often picturesque and many are definitely low.

The romantic mood of our clothes is fundamentally developed by Roxane's selection of soft and sumptuous fabrics: fine-textured tweeds with a downy surface, chiffon-weight worsteds, a new double-faced [illegible] weave and a strong revival of chiffon [illegible] both [illegible] and [illegible].

Colors which are true in value rather than muted, mixed or hyped up, are starred in the collection. There are many tones of blue, and a true rose pink which we believe is a newly perfect evening shade.

Dear Heloise:

I have found that if I keep a clothespin pinned to my shower curtain, I can hang up my shower cap by the point of the head (bless pointed heads on women!)

For years I put my shower cap on a hook on the wall only to find that it gathers moisture and mildew around the band. This method of using a clothespin to hang it allows all the water and moisture to drip out.

A Reader

Dear Heloise:

Try this one: Reverse your window shades by installing them upside down. Simply install the roller on the window sill itself!

By pulling the shade up from the window sill itself, and leaving the window down at the top, I have found that this will circulate all of the air you need without sacrificing privacy!

The shade can be pulled up half way from the sill to the window area allowing for privacy, but still you have all of the circulation you want.

Phil Potts

Anyone have an answer to cleaning the drainboards? No answer in our library. I guess book writers forgot this when they wrote the books! Write to Heloise, in care of the Gazette Telegraph.

Dear Heloise:

When pouring hot water from vegetables, I always have the cold water running in the sink. This stops the steam from hurting or scalding my hands.

I also took your advice about using nylon net for 18 by 18 inch dishcloths. They work fine. I ran colored yarn near the edges, two rows of running stitches and a crocheted loop to hang them, to decorate the net cloths.

I have made many of these for our church bazaar. I thought others might be interested in this as people love 'em so.

Dear Heloise:

We do not use much lettuce at a time and I find that it will keep fresh for weeks if I store it in a sealed airtight plastic bowl in the refrigerator. This will also make limp lettuce crisp again.

Davidow Extends Scope Of Fall Suit

With the Fall 1962 collection, Davidow extends the scope of the comfortable, casual suit into a many-splendored life.

The theme is carried out in both the soft town-or-country suits for which this house is famous, and in those with more sophisticated costume motifs. In either case, silhouettes are of the free-and-easy variety. Jackets are demi-fitted or boxy. Skirts have facile movement in four-gore shapes, box pleats stemming from the hipbone or walking pleats with slender lines. Both colors and fabrics have been selected with a view to travelability and year-round wear.

Among these versatile ideas is an ensemble shown in lightweight teal blue tweed. Consisting of a boxy jacket and unpressed pleated skirt, it comes together with a matching bias-cut overblouse that gives it either dress or suit potential in two or all three pieces. Another obviously multi-occasion costume is in black monotone tweed, this in a more dressy vein, having been combined with cognac-colored silk. The jacket is straight and buttonless, lined and set over a sleeveless silk blouse. A slender skirt has walking slits to one side, both front and back, each intriguingly underlined in the cognac silk.

Davidow's wellknown Chanels also appear in four-season themes. Shown in luscious navy wools, one has a shocking pink blouse with matching shocking yarn braid outlining the straight jacket; another, in brass-button tradition, has navy yarn and red grosgrain jacket braid and a vertically tucked blouse of red silk. Still another, in navy French silk, is ensembled with a colorful Roman-striped blouse with the same stripe trimming its jacket. Also outstanding amongst many colorful Chanels in the collection is a cardigan suit of fleecy orange and gray plaid and matching orange silk blouse.

In addition to many blouses of silk which contrast or coordinate with wools, silk weaves are also prominent in individual suit designs here this season, and appear in the collection's major silhouettes. A jacket that is at once easy and fitted via clever diagonal slashes at the waist is shown in a slim pale blue and brown silk tweed suit. A new bias-waisted jacket that gives a subtle elongated look as well as being especially adaptable to the belted or unbelted option.

Davidow's plaids are of special interest this fall, ranging from soft, muted combinations to the bold red and green stained-glass plaid seen in a hooded coat and a gay red, green and black "horse-blanket plaid" shown in a "Race Track" suit. From John Barr come a group of muted plaids include a soft-as-cashmere blue and green Lesur wool and a new group of handwoven exclusive plaids in earthtoned neutral shades.

Plaids have been used in novel ways in the collection's coat and suit coordinates. Among these is a solid-toned suit in sheer moss green wool with a straight topcoat in an outstanding plaid of brown, gold and matching moss green. In some cases, plaid toppers are compatibly paired off with checked wool suits.

Bias-woven English knits, hound's-tooth checks, soft tweeds and novelty weaves, continue strongly in the fabric spotlight here, mostly in brown to beige or bluish neutrals favored throughout the collection. New Linton tweeds are made up in ensembles, and other outstanding British novelty fabrics come in new and exceptionally beautiful colorings. The color pallette includes more blacks this year, and, at the opposite end, a new group of straight-lined casual coats in "Fall Pastels."

Although meat charts sometimes designate a pound of boneless meat as serving four, you may find it wise to count on this amount of meat serving only three.

AGENCY GOOFS

DENVER (UPI)—Secretary of State George Baker said Wednesday the State Liquor Division "goofed" when it issued a package license to a location a few feet away from another retail liquor outlet in Adams County. Baker said he ordered the new license, which went to Leonard L. Napolitan, suspended pending investigation. The Colorado Package Liquor Association and Elmer and Marie Schmer, who operate the Pioneer Liquor store complained.

Patents Sailing Into Fall

Patent leather has sailed right through spring, says the National Shoe Institute, and shows no sign of losing its fashion impetus. For the first time, patent will shine up to the most important fall and winter occasions.

The secret is that patent shoes are now made of plastics that will not crack in cold weather and that require no more care than a wiping with a damp cloth to restore their brilliance when dusty or soiled.

Another reason patents are much sought-after: there is practically no color, now, that dyers can't achieve. It's bright finish makes it a perfect foil for reds, from the clear combustion shades through darkened vintage tones to the deep browned, berry shades.

It gives new perspective to the subtle fall colorings. Otter, antelope, the furries, firewood and peat browns, all are eloquent in patent. The new breen, a combination of bronze and green, is a favorite for late-day patents with open shanks or heels.

Patent is often used when designers look to contrasting textures. It [illegible] adds sparkle to deep plushy suedes or furs, and teams effectively with smooth matte-finished leathers.

Something close to 600 million pairs of shoes are produced annually in the United States, or about 3½ pairs per person.

Good Manners

You won't make many mistakes in etiquette if you always strive to put others at ease.

Young men: don't ask if she's "busy" for an evening. Come right out and ask for a date.

Recall, the store is doing a favor for you if it takes back other than faulty merchandise.

If you don't have a wedding gift sent until after the ceremony, write a note of apology to the bride.

Many consider paper napkins too informal for an indoor meal.

One Dress Style Flatters Twice

By MARY BROOKS PICKEN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

So many women have written to me about dresses for larger figures, other women who are smaller want a conservative style that is not too youthful.

The design shown can be flattering and should be completely satisfactory to both:

Because it has good lines.

Because it is easy to fit.

Because it has just enough skirt fullness.

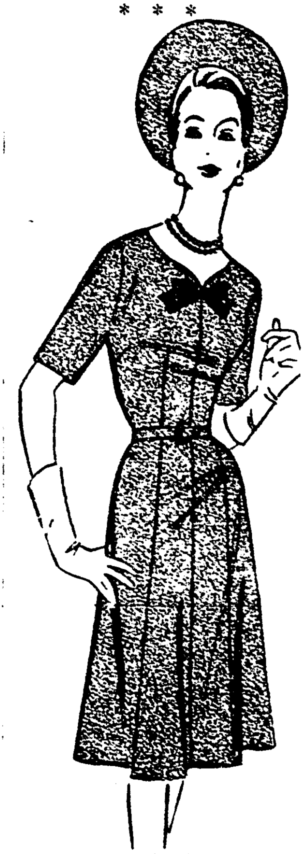
Because it is generally becoming to both larger and smaller figures. Pattern sizes for this are 12½ to 26½.

Neck can be shaped as you desire it for the type of necklace you will wear. Sleeves can be as short or long as you like, and the dress can be worn with or without a narrow or string belt. Bow at center front can be omitted if the bust if full, or if figure is short waisted.

I have been accused of favoring kimono sleeves for stouts, and I do in most instances as the size increase usually is from the armhole down to a point halfway of the thigh.

Oftentimes I recommend that a pattern be bought which fits in the shoulders as, say, a 16, when bust and hip call for a 20, or 38.

* * *



* * *

Then enlarge at the underarm seams as much as one full inch both front and back, to provide needed width.

If a kimono style is selected, be sure it has a gusset, as larger arms must have a gusset for comfort.

A fine wool crepe, silk linen, or any firmly woven drip dry is suitable for a dress in the design shown.

Fabric should not be so firmly woven that it will not flatter the figure, yet it should not be so sheer as to cling, when good-fitting lines are present as shown in sketch.

Neckline should have a fitted facing. Self hem is correct where flare in the skirt is so slight. Self hem also for the sleeves.

This seven - gore skirt has much to recommend it. Use it with different tops — kimono, for example. Or use it for a separate skirt.

Zipper should be at the side and should be long enough to allow dress to be put on and off with ease.

If you are large, buy plain fabric. Dress it with costume jewelry; with attractive scarves, with piping of chiffon at neck and sleeves.

Vary the effect but never allow yourself to be conspicuous, as one too often can be in a recognizable print.

Press seams open — overcast raw edges. Allow good seams, as a good seam definitely helps a garment to hold its shape, and to stay in place in the figure—one reason why more - expensive cloths look better when worn.

Press as you sew and press each seam as it joins another.

Pattern No. 8297

Flattering, charming and graceful aptly describe this collarless dress for the half - size figure.

Pattern comes in sizes 12½ to 26½. Size 14½, 35 bust, requires 4¼ yards of 35 - inch fabric.

If you'd like to make the garment illustrated, write to

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	2 ♣	Pass	3 ♣
Double	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Ace of ♣

Failure by West to anticipate declarer's plan of attack resulted in loss of the game contract to South. After one mild slip in technique, West found himself backed into a corner from which there was no escape.

South's double on the second round of bidding is proper procedure. North needs very little to produce a game and, if South merely makes a free rebid in spades, it is doubtful that his partner will be able to carry on. North's three spade wall was made with some reluctance. He was tempted to show the five-card diamond suit, with which action no serious issue could be taken. But, after the return to spades, South relieved his partner of any further anxiety by proceeding to game.

West led the ace of clubs and, when East signalled with the jack, a club was continued which declarer ruffed. South would like to be in dummy at this point to take a spade finesse but unfortunately, there is no direct access to the North hand. In the hope of coaxing a favorable play from the opposition, declarer led the ace of diamonds followed by the deuce. West blithely followed to the first lead with the eight of diamonds and accordingly was saddled with the lead when he had to win the next diamond trick with the king.

He exited with a small heart which rode around to the ten in declarer's hand, but this only postponed the evil moment. South now cashed the ace of hearts and followed this up with the queen, throwing West back in again. This time, West led a trump which unfortunately trapped his partner's king and put an end to the proceedings.

West's play in diamonds is, perhaps, understandable, but a little more reflection on his part might have served to foil declarer's effort. South's failure to play trumps at once implies that his spade holding is not solid. His lead of the ace of diamonds therefore must be part of a campaign to throw the defenders in. Inasmuch as the lead may prove embarrassing to West, he should throw his king of diamonds under the ace, in the hope of making way for partner to win the next lead of diamonds. A heart return now will eliminate the possibility of an end play against West, for he will be able to exit with a heart, when he obtains the lead. This maneuver will force declarer to lead spades from his own hand.

Modern Living Formula Says Dress to Relax

How do you set back time? How do you shut out the world? How do you find — or make — time for the enjoyment of yourself, your family?

Modern life is the enemy of a peaceful, relaxed existence. The automobile has created a sense of go, go, go. The telephone opens the door to any kind of intrusion into your privacy.

A celebrated modern novelist has her own defense. She closes the door. She disconnects the telephone. She puts on her slippers.

Slippers for her mean what they are to most of us, except more so. They represent not only a physical relaxation, but a mental one as well. Kings and queens can find no richer reward on this earth.

Something in the mood, however, has changed, according to the National Shoe Institute. Relaxation once meant for women a disregard of appearance in what was believed to be an interest in comfort. For men, it meant wearing anything sufficiently beat up.

An Edison of modern living discovered that you could dress up to relax. A beautiful sports shirt or a lacy negligee gave a lift to the spirt. Fine slippers,—glove leather for men, perhaps, or embroidered velvet or long - haired fur for women,—was an indulgence, a thing of pride, in one's self.

When General Eisenhower was asked what he wanted in his new residence as President of Columbia University, he answered, "serenity,"—the serenity whose symbol is a slipper.

Stealing Oil With Slant Wells Causes Scandal

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Whipstock Bill James sat in the sweatbox of a courtroom. He looked worried but somehow he didn't seem to share the gloom of the others there.

There was a somberly intent expression in Whipstock Bill's face weathered by 45 years in the blistering sun, the rain and the cold of the oil fields.

His main concern appeared to be telling — in terms a layman could understand — how to sink a particular kind of oil well.

Bill is — or was — a driller hired to thrust holes in the ground at slant.

The frequent application of his skilled hands and others who know his trade set off one of the new great scandals in Texas.

It involves more people than the Billie Sol Estes affair did.

It is called slant-hole drilling, or crooked well drilling, or deviated drilling.

A crooked well is drilled so it will bottom under another oilman's lease. Thus the slant well owner can steal his neighbor's oil.

Authorities claim oil worth $10 million a year is stolen this way.

The state says it has found more than 125 illegally drilled wells. Sixty four were junked by the operators before crews could test them.

Whipstock Bill testified there may be as many as 300 to 350 crooked wells in the East Texas field alone.

Asked how many he had drilled, he first said "Whew. God only knows." Later he estimated 100.

Whipstock Bill said a driller with the proper skills can drill to beneath a point three-quarters of a mile away and not miss his mark a degree.

The driller gained his name from a device called a whipstock.

As Bill described the whipstock, it is a piece of pipe placed in the well. Its top is slanted at a pre-determined angle.

Thus when a drilling bit is rotated in the well, the whipstock nudges the bit a little to one side, slanting the hole.

Whipstock testified in Dallas before a Texas House investigating committee.

Committee counsel David Witts explained that Whipstock Bill merely did the jobs laid out for him by others.

Gloom clouded numerous faces in the hearing room because the state accuses many of pumping oil from slanted wells.

The Texas Railroad Commission which regulates oil production, has ordered all wells on leases containing even one illegally slanted well cut off from pipelines. This means the oilmen have no way to market even legally pumped oil. Nearly 600 wells were cut off at one time for this reason, although a few connections have since been restored.

Whipstock Bill also described the plastic pipe trick.

Why, asked a questioner, use plastic pipe?

"It was so you could carry oil and you couldn't find it with a magnetic," he said. He referred to mine detector-type devices.

The trick works this way: An oil operator orders a slanted well drilled on a lease that has no oil under it, as a number of dry holes testify.

He tells the Railroad Commission he has found oil with his new well. The commission allots him a daily production allowable (quota) under the rigid control laws.

The operator then has plastic pipe laid to the dry holes and pumps oil from the slanted well into them. He claims he has restored production in these old wells. He obtains more allowables.

Witnesses at the hearing said leases with zero production zoomed to an output of 1,000 barrels or more per month after crooked holes were drilled. At $3 a barrel, a man could get back his investment in a year.

Railroad commissioners say the slant wells could not have been possible without connivance of Railroad Commission employes, two of whom were fired.

In the glare of the public eye, what of the slant-well business?

"It came to a squeaking halt," testified Whipstock Bill.

Republican Rebels Boost Gov. Brown

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Maverick Republicans who support Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown in his re-election bid against Richard M. Nixon have opened an office here.

A sign outside reads in large letters, "Republican headquarters." Inside, they boost Pat Brown.

"This is a clear case of misrepresentation," protested Alan H. Nicholas, chairman of the local Nixon for Governor Committee to Brown campaign leaders, who are considering the matter.

Another Misfortune Befalls Rabbit Hound

GILBERT, W.Va. (AP)—Another misfortune has befallen Brownie, a nationally known rabbit hound.

Brownie, 4, was struck by a car last month and suffered a broken leg and other injuries. He now has some difficulty in getting around, much less chasing rabbits.

Brownie attracted national attention last year when he was trapped in an abandoned coal mine while indulging in his favorite sport—chasing rabbits. He was rescued after 50 days in the mine.

Two More U.S. Flights Charged By Red Chinese

TOKYO (AP) —Red China claimed two U.S. planes flew over its territory today and issued what it called its 213th warning against such provocations.

The Communist New China News Agency report did not identify the type of American planes or say whether any attempt was made to shoot them down—as in the case of a Chinese Nationalist U2 plane claimed to have been down Sunday over the China mainland.

The agency said one U.S. plane intruded into Red China over Chengssu Islands in Chekiang Province for three minutes. The other plane was accused of flying over Yunghsing Island of Kwangtung Province for nine minutes.

The Communist propaganda machine hammered at the United States about the flight of the American-built U2 plane piloted by a Chinese Nationalist reportedly shot down.

But neither the Nationalists nor the U.S. government gave any indication they would halt Nationalist reconnaissance flights over the mainland.

Six-Orbit Flight Of Schirra Put Off Three Days

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Astronaut Walter M. Schirra's intended six-orbit flight around the globe has been delayed three days until Sept. 28 to permit further time for preparation.

The decision came Monday after Project Mercury officials evaluated the readiness of all aspects. It was learned unofficially that the [illegible] Pacific tracking ship, the Rose Knot, was not ready.

The Atlas booster rocket and Schirra's spacecraft were reported in excellent condition. They were mated together on pad No. 14 Monday and extensive compatibility checks were begun.

Schirra continued training here for the flight, which is to keep him aloft nine hours, twice the flight time of astronauts John H. Glenn and Malcolm Scott Carpenter.

In Washington, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced that a press headquarters for the Schirra flight will be set up at the Cape Colony Inn at Cocoa Beach, Fla.

Church Develops Community for Retired People

COLUMBUS, Ohio (NEA) — Not a place to retire in old age and sit and rock, but a place for older people with the desire and will to remain alive mentally and spiritually.

This is the vision of First Community Village, a unique planned development for retired people in Upper Arlington near Columbus. [illegible] be the real thing, not just the bricks and mortar, wood [illegible] that make up the buildings.

The statistics are [illegible] enough. A 3.6-million-dollar investment, guaranteed by the Federal Housing Authority. It will be the biggest living center ever insured by the FHA and the largest living area for older persons ever undertaken by the congregation of a single church.

First Community Village is sponsored by the people of First Community Church in Upper Arlington and will be the new [illegible] 50 [illegible].

Many years ago Dr. Roy Burkhart, pastor of First Community Church for 21 years, dreamed of such a place. His enthusiasm was infectious. More and more people became interested. And the present senior minister, Dr. [illegible] Maxfield, kept the dream alive.

[illegible] will start moving into the buildings [illegible] acre tract in 1963.

Young Rev. James B[illegible], minister-director of the Village [illegible]. Already more than 200 have filed preliminary applications to become part of the new life.

"Don't come just because you like the living quarters," he tells them. "Come to put new meaning into your life, to give it depth and purpose."

He explained that the people who make up the Village will be encouraged to take a full part in its broad activities. They will want to be in the main stream of life, not content to drift into a backwater.

Their communication and interchanges with the whole community will be constant, and they will be encouraged to share in the cultural, economic, social and political life of Columbus and the area. And they will be taught and encouraged to exercise their creative abilities and talents.

A world traveler and writer will be among the Village residents. Already this writer is planning classes in creative writing and will urge Village people to try their hand at writing.

A piano teacher will be one of the pioneer residents. She has offered her grand piano to the Village and will teach people to play. Another early applicant looks forward to organizing tours abroad among the Villagers.

Unlike most developments for older people, there is no life membership fee, no obligation to remain a Villager if it does not prove a satisfactory life.

Villagers just rent the facilities and are free to leave without further financial obligation if they desire.

Facilities are complete. Those who do not wish to "keep house" may take a single apartment for $235 a month. That includes food, medical program, maid service and all the activities with which the Village will be so richly endowed.

A couple who want to keep house may take a hillside apartment at $185 a month. It will include all the facilities except food.

There will be no steps in the Village. Long ramps will lead from one place to another—to the infirmary and clinic staffed 24 hours a day, to the library, community center, swimming pool and many other areas for life enjoyment.

This project has fired the imaginations of the First Community Church people. They are devoting many hours to it. They believe it could be the pattern for a satisfactory solution to a pressing modern problem: What is to become of the increasing number of the nation's retired people?

Keating Told No Berlin Deal Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — A high administration spokesman has assured Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., that his fears of a possible U.S.-Soviet diplomatic deal involving Cuba and Berlin are groundless.

Official sources said Secretary of State Dean Rusk personally advised Keating that no such deal was under consideration.

CARMEL, Calif. (UPI) — Bob Baird, an auto agency sales manager, is out to top the telephone company at its own numbers game.

"Signed 262 22473"

"I just got sick and tired of digitalis," said Baird in reference to the recent switch over to all number call systems.

Red Cosmonauts Crossed Canada, U.S. 70 Times

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — The North American Air Defense Command said today two Russian cosmonauts crossed the North American continent 70 times during their double orbital trips Aug. 11-15.

NORAD's space detection and tracking system traced the flights of the two spacemen in more than 112 earth orbits. A spokesman said if the Russian craft had carried launchable warheads, they could have zeroed in on any point in the United States or Canada.

NORAD said 208 manmade satellites were in orbit today. It classified 43 as payloads and the rest as debris. The spokesman said the Defense Department no longer allows NORAD to identify the payloads as Russian or American.

Five Physicians Pass Exam at State Hospital

DENVER (AP) — Five physicians at Colorado State Hospital in Pueblo have passed the state's basic sciences examination, the Department of Institutions said today.

They were among 11 physicians shifted from the hospital staff to "resident" status this summer. Two of them are Dr. C. Douglas Sharpe, acting assistant superintendent of the hospital, and Dr. Leonardo Garcia, chief of clinical services.

The others named by the department are Drs. [illegible] Reinaldo Faget and Haydee Kort.

Five other physicians at the hospital took the examination early this month. One failed in one subject and four in more than one, the department said.

The doctor failing in one subject may take that part of the test again without repeating the other subjects, but those failing in more than one subject must take the entire examination again.

The department declined to disclose the names of these five physicians.

Last spring Dr. Willis H. Bower, hospital superintendent, criticized the basic sciences requirement — including chemistry, anatomy and bacteriology — for experienced doctors.

He said the subjects are "fairly fresh in the minds of sophomores in medical school, but not in the minds of most mature physicians."

Dr. Bower urged the physicians be given more time to prepare for the examination.

Draft of Physicians Is Hinted by Army

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department warned today it may have to resort to the doctor draft again unless it gets enough volunteers to make up an expected shortage of about 1,000 general practice medical officers.

The shortage is forecast for the fiscal year starting next July 1. It cuts across all the armed services.

Tense Nerves Block Bowels

New tonic-tablet laxative acts directly on tense colonic nerves...de-constipates overnight.

The walls of your colon contain nerves known to medicine as Auerbach's Plexus. In regular people, these nerves tell the colon muscles to propel and expel waste from the body.

But, when you're tense, these nerves telegraph too many contracting or [illegible] impulses. Then your colon muscles hold dry, shrunken colon contents in a powerful, unyielding grip.

Relief, doctors say, lies in the non-irritating, de-constipating principle of a new tonic-tablet called COLONAID. Of all laxatives, only COLONAID gives you its special 3-way overnight relief for tension-caused constipation.

(1) COLONAID stimulates your colonic nerve network, to activate and regularize its muscular "movement". (2) COLONAID's unequalled re-bulking action re-tones tense colon muscles (3) COLONAID moisturizes for easy passage without pain or strain.

COLONAID relieves even chronic constipation overnight; is so gentle it was hospital-proved safe even for expectant mothers. Get COLONAID today. INTRODUCTORY SIZE 43¢

SAVE $5000.00 ON YOUR NEW HOME!

RIGHT NOW -- GET READY TO CHANGE YOUR CONCEPT OF HOUSES!

There's real excitement in the air at the offices of PATIO TOWN HOUSES, Inc. as they announce details of their new exclusive home building plan, a plan that will save you a neat $5,000 on a large 1908 square foot home.

PATIO TOWN HOUSES, Inc. is pleased to offer, for the first time in Colorado Springs, the most exciting development in quality home building anywhere today. There are thousands, yes tens of thousands in other cities in America.

From the ground up (and you will enjoy the Stratmoor Hills location, facing beautiful Cheyenne Mountain) are innovations in time tested materials that will appeal to your interest in things beautiful, modern, efficient, and practical.

Can you imagine a superior construction system which gains strength with the years? (PATIO TOWN HOUSES)

Picture an architectural design concept with the strength of character to match the construction features. (PATIO TOWN HOUSES)

Feature a home almost completely fireproof—practically indestructible! (PATIO TOWN HOUSES)

Imagine a home where you can forget 50% of the ordinary home maintenance problems. (PATIO TOWN HOUSES)

PATIO TOWN HOUSES is proud to be able to offer a way for you to save $5,000, and their system is no secret!

Here's the amazing trick:

Since the invention of saw mills and brick kilns, houses have been built of thousands of boards, thousands of nails, thousands of bricks. To truck 100,000 pieces of material to a lot and expect carpenters, brick layers, and others to build a home under the heat of the summer sun or in the freezing winter weather is the most expensive way to build a house.

Today, by manufacturing large panels and lifting them in place with powerful cranes—it is possible to eliminate most of the hand work done outdoors. The PATIO TOWN HOUSES are built of large prestressed concrete panels instead of thousands of small pieces, resulting in stronger construction, faster construction, and a greater savings to the buyer.

We have proof of concrete's wonderful strength in Rome's Appian Way, still in an excellent state of preservation, even though the concrete of some two thousand years ago was not equal to modern standards. Then, more recently, there is the University of Wisconsin's 100 year test for concrete, now at the halfway mark—which has proved that the concrete is twice as strong today as it was 50 years ago when the test started.

From the research laboratories that have produced many wonders of this aerospace age will come other building materials and products for your PATIO TOWN HOUSE.

LOOK and COMPARE!

We urge everyone in Colorado Springs who is interested in acquiring a new home (at the very lowest cost) to compare these PATIO TOWN HOUSES with any new home being offered in this city.

The more exhaustive your investigation and comparison, the more convinced you will be that you can can save $5000 or more by the purchase of a PATIO TOWN HOUSE.

When considering a new home, we suggest you ascertain the price for every square foot of floor area in the house. You buy meat by the pound, dress goods by the yard, and diamonds by the carat. One of the most accurate ways for you to appraise any house you are considering is to know the price per square foot.

The PATIO TOWN HOUSE costs $7.60 a square foot for 1908 square feet. COMPARE THIS WITH ANY HOUSE YOU ARE CONSIDERING.

LOOK at these terrific features

★ House has 1908 sq. ft. Compare this with other houses!

Play Production Course Offered at CU Center

The University of Colorado Extension Division is offering a play production course beginning Tuesday. The course will be taught by Homer L. Paris, director of drama at Wasson High School, and will meet every other Tuesday from 7 to 9 p.m. in Jackson House, corner of north Nevada Avenue and San Rafael Street, on the Colorado College campus. Registration for this course will be from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. today and Thursday at the same location.

The class will be directed primarily at the beginner who wishes to learn about acting in plays, directing or how to produce the scenery and lighting effects as well as costuming and makeup.

The curriculum will include actual participation in scenes and skits, so that the class member can be training from actually doing a play. Paris will also review current local productions staged here in Colorado Springs by the civic players, shows traveling through on the Broadway circuit and shows that the local high schools or other civic groups are doing.

There is no prerequisite required to take the class only an interest in learning how to produce better drama.

Paris, a veteran of the theatre, has a BA degree in theatre from Denver University, an MA degree in theatre from Michigan State University and advanced study at Colorado University and Colorado College. He has been teaching in Colorado Springs for 11 years and before that at Alma College and Michigan State University, in Michigan. For two years he supervised and taught Children's Theatre in Casper, Wy. Last year he taught a class for the University of Colorado.

He has directed civic groups in Bremerton, Wash., Hollywood, Calif., Longmont, and Manitou Springs and has acted in community and semi-professional theatre and toured with traveling shows.

Further information about this course and registration can be obtained by calling the University of Colorado Extension administrative offices at ME 2-7316.

Nebraska registered a turnout of 71.5 per cent of the number of persons of voting age in the 1960 presidential election, compared with the national average of 64.3 per cent.

Another Miracle??

CC Remains in the Dark About Weekend's Foe

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

How long do miracles last?

That is one of the questions confronting the Colorado College coaching staff this week. Then—there are any number they would like to ask about Saturday night's upcoming opponent, Washburn University.

As if Jerry Carle and the remainder of the CC brain trust don't have enough problems patching together a lineup from week to week, the Ichabods had to pick this year to throw a snappy curve in the local direction.

What Washburn did was to hire a new coach this season—and then fail to schedule a game ahead of the CC contest. The result is that Carle and staff are attempting to prepare for Saturday's clash at Topeka, Kan. with only the vaguest notion of what to prepare for.

"Since they haven't played, we naturally haven't had any chance to scout them," Carle said early in the week. "We've made some inquiries and from what we've found out, they may be running everything from the single wing to the winged-T. We really don't know what to set our defenses for."

Best bet, however, seems to be that the Ichabods will operate primarily from the winged-T and that their offense will be generally basic and fairly close to the ground. Quarterback Curt Miller, who returns from last years squad is not noted for his passing ability. But he did give the Tigers a lesson in ground warfare at Washburn Field last September, rushing for better than 100 yards and generally making life miserable for the CC defenses with his clever use of the option.

It was Miller who was in great part responsible for Washburn's 18-14 triumph in the Tigers' back yard, a feat not too often accomplished for some rare reason other than the roar of the crowd. That, however, was his best effort of the season according to Topeka sources and a goodly number of last year's helpmates will not be around to tab open the holes this time.

Joining Miller on the [illegible] list is fullback [illegible] who didn't exactly [illegible] posts in the Ichabods last year but the halfbacks are new and there is some question as to their effectiveness. John Pusater, one of last fall's splinter brigade at Washburn, has moved up to the number one tailback slot and letterman Ronnie Heck will hold down the wingback berth. Both are short on experience.

The line will undoubtedly outstrip the Tigers as far as size but it will not be huge. The biggest and perhaps the best is a 210 pound transfer from Kansas State Larry Benson. He will man one of the tackle holes along with returnee Warren Dorby. Leon Shellinberger, the other tackle from last year's line, has been moved to guard. End Ralph Smith is the top wingman and receiver—when there is any receiving to be done.

Thus, believe it or not, if the Tigers can come up with another effort like the outstanding performance they turned in last Saturday, chances against Washburn are not nil. Two victories in a row would probably force Carle to cut the squad.

Washburn does have the advantage of a scouting report, however, collected during last week's CC triumph over St. Mary's of the Plains. In it will undoubtedly be a few notes pertaining to the Tigers' now-famous "Bully" offense, along with a few prayers that the local team doesn't spring it. No scout could digest that in one peek.

All of which means that the Tigers do have a fighting chance against the Ichabods.

Ichabods—with a name like that they must call their backfield "The Headless Horsemen."

Austin Grabs Playoff Lead

By United Press International

Austin took a 1-0 lead in the Texas League championship playoffs Tuesday night with a 3-0 victory over Tulsa.

Wade Blasingame hurled a masterful four-hit shutout. Joe Trenary backed Blasingame's pitching with a two-run homer in the ninth inning.

Haering Says Bucs Need Improvement

St. Mary's coach Chuck Haering is a perfectionist. The majority of the crowd who saw the Pirates make their 1962 debut at Wasson Stadium last Friday night thought the Buccaneers showed mid-season form in pounding Cheyenne Mountain, 21-6.

The Bucco rooting section may have been happy but Haering wasn't entirely pleased. "Our blocking on our trap plays was real good but after looking at the game films, I think we need a lot of improvement in other areas. The team agrees with me."

Haering said that his team as a whole played an aggressive game offensively and defensively. However, he was a bit upset when they were racked with 12 penalties during the course of the ball game for a whopping total of 130 yards.

"They were hitting hard out there on Friday night but they made a lot of mental errors. We're going to have to learn to watch our hands and learn that clipping down field doesn't pay."

The Pirates came out of their victory in good physical condition with only the usual bumps and bruises. End John O'Connell, the biggest tree along Haering's massive forward wall at 6-6 and 215 pounds, was feeling a little ouchy at the first of the week but is expected to be ready to go on Sunday when the Pirates open their Denver Parochial League campaign against highly touted St. Francis.

Rich Jewett, the Gazette Telegraph's Back of the Week for his outstanding performance against Cheyenne, came thru the Indian game unscathed and Pirate fans are hoping to see him gallop again come Sunday.

Fullback Larry Peralta appeared to have gotten over his old fumbling troubles. The 165 pound senior slasher gained fifty-odd yards for the Buc cause and was never thrown for a loss the entire evening.

As good as the Pirate backfield looked, the line may have been even better. They out-horsed the Indians all the way down the line on Friday and that was the real difference between the two clubs. O'Connell and Pat Conley were only two of the stand-outs up front for the Bucs.

Despite their brilliant showing in the opener, Haering thinks the Pirates will have to be even better on Sunday. At the start of the season, he rated St. Francis right behind Regis in the DPL and nothing has happened since to change his mind.

St. Francis defeated St. Mary's 12-6, last season in a driving snow storm. "They outplayed us badly," said Haering. "I sure hope it doesn't happen again."

Junction Made SCL Favorite

(Editor's Note: This is the first of two articles dealing with the individual teams involved in this year's AAA South Central League race.)

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

A possible giant but no dwarfs is the capsule summary of the 1962 South Central League alignment for the race which is due to get underway the latter part of this month.

The AAA circuit, the runaway powerhouse in the 1961 state prep picture, may not be quite as mighty as a year ago but it will still hold its own with any of the other top classification leagues across Colorado.

Pre-season feeling is that Grand Junction looms as the team to beat — but that there are two or three which might do it. The Tigers return what should be the state's finest backfield and only a questionmark line prevents the Western Slope team from being a runaway choice. Trinidad, with a host of lettermen back from Dutch Nogel's excellent 1961 team, is the usual runner-up pick altho Nogel is having none of it.

The remainder of the league teams are in the mystery stage at this point and very little will be known about at least a couple until the actual SCL schedule gets underway. The general opinion, however, is that defending champion Central and Colorado Springs Wasson have the best chance for the rapid improvement necessary to challenge the top picks. The other four schools should field sound clubs also and at this point it would appear that upsets may be a frequent occurence. Only if the Junction squad really jells, would any team seem to have much chance of going thru the league schedule undefeated.

A team by team summary follows:

GRAND JUNCTION—The Tigers' credentials are so impressive that they may win a couple of games by simply scaring the opposition off the field.

New coach Carl Cox, who replaced departed Gene Ridenour, has 18 lettermen off the 1961 team that was improving rapidly at the end of the season. Most significant is the fact that he returns the biggest, fastest backfield in the league. Halfbacks Boots Bagby and Vernon Dickey were terrorizing the circuit last fall and will do so again, altho Bagby has been switched to quarterback. He weighs in at 197 and Dickey is 180. Both run a 10.0 100 yard dash. Lex Towns, another speedster, is the smallest starting back at 160 and fullback Wayne Davis tips the scales at 170.

The remainder of the lettermen are in the line and it is their development that will be the key to the team. The tackles are big with Tom Prinster at 208 the heaviest and Dennis Jamieson and Dennis Patterick both at 188. Dick Duncan is 194 at a guard—the others are all 170 or under. There are three lettermen at center with Harry McArdle the biggest at 170. Ron Hiller, a 6-2, 183-pound end is the biggest of the flankmen but there are three other lettermen there also.

The junior class is described as weak but coming sophomores should help by the middle of the season. Greg Holmes, a 6-4, 200 pound tackle is one that Cox is counting on.

Improvement in the line will be necessary to help the Tigers' attack, however. The inside game was very weak last year allowing opponents to concentrate on the outside attack. As was the case last year, it will be suicide to let Bagby or Dickey turn the corner.

If the line comes up to expectations and the Tigers can beat Central and Wasson away from home they could turn the league focus on the race for second.

TRINIDAD—"The way things are going, this may be [illegible] worst season," says the Miners' Dutch Nogel.

Other league coaches find this a little difficult to buy, especially since the hard-nosed Trinidad team has 15 veteran head-knockers returning. Included are two excellent quarterbacks, Dennis Jost and Jim Toupal, and speedsters Jim Mangino and George Martinez among the halfbacks.

Nogel also has nine lettermen back from last year's line and that one wrecked league offenses all season. David Chitale, a 170-pound guard, is expected to be one of the SCL's top performers and he has sound company at most of the other line spots.

The Miners will definitely miss Larry Ferraro, their bullish tailback who was the leading ground gainer last season en route to all-state honors. Ferraro's greatest value, tho, was as a center linebacker where he was the key to the defense. It may be the difficulty in replacing him there that has Nogel complaining.

It is true that Trinidad will be small, but that [illegible] the overall speed [illegible] great. The [illegible] depth and at this writing Nogel does have five players [illegible] with injuries. A few key figures sidelined for any length of time and the Miners' chances would [illegible] evaporate.

Trinidad has more [illegible] that Junction, but at the start of the season at least, the Miners must be considered a solid contender.

PUEBLO CENTRAL—There was a rumor last spring that seven visiting league coaches attended Central's graduation just to breathe a sigh of relief as the [illegible] of the great AAA state championship team picked [illegible].

These coaches should also have attended the athletic banquet where coach Ed Lesar handed out letters [illegible] lads who are back again this season.

[illegible] most of these letters went [illegible] custom of state [illegible] one of the re[illegible] Richard Wolfe [illegible] on that squad [illegible] did [illegible] key gaps [illegible] of the [illegible]

Elsewhere there are any number of [illegible] including ends Ron Orsskovich and Gil Abeyta, halfbacks [illegible] Williams and Gary Gen[illegible], tackle Buddy Scott, center [illegible] Kennedy, quarterback Chuck [illegible] and guards Bruce Heath, [illegible] Smith, and Tony Butt.

[illegible] the Wildcats have [illegible] Longmont [illegible] the offense [illegible]

Thursday the remaining five league teams will be reviewed.

Prep Stars of the Week

RICH JEWETT

Back

The Back of the Week for the first week of the 1962 season in the Pikes Peak Region is not unexpectedly Rick Jewett of St. Mary's High School, who played a brilliant game in the Pirates opener against Cheyenne Mountain last Friday night.

Jewett not only starred on offense, carrying the ball for 139 yards in nine tries, but also turned in an outstanding effort as a defensive halfback in the Buc secondary. He was the last man to get a shot at Bobby Richardson when the Indian speedster was heading for a TD in the first quarter. He not only knocked Richardson out of bounds with a clean but smashing block, but also put the Cheyenne scatback out of the ball game and broke the back of Cheyenne's first sustained drive.

Jewett scored St. Mary's first and second touchdowns of the evening, the first on a one-yard plunge, the second on a 96-yard scamper around his own left end. During the latter run, at least seven tacklers had clear shots at him but Jewett got away from them a

FRED WAKE

* * *

Lineman

Lineman of the Week honors for the high schoolers in the Pikes Peak region goes to end Fred Wake of Fountain who turned in a fine all-around game in the Trojans' 25-0 defeat at the hands of powerhouse Rocky Ford.

Wake and the rest of the Trojan ends took a terrific pounding in their losing effort to stop the Meloneers' power sweeps around end. Wake stopped fullback Ed Steele on several occasions when the 215-pound fullback appeared to be long gone.

On offense, Wake and quarterback Don Cockroft threw a terrific scare into the winners on the opening play of the game. Cockroft faded clear back to Fountain and hit Wake with a 65-yard toss. The last man in the Rocky Ford secondary hauled Wake down on the 17 yard line.

Wake, a 162-pound senior letterman, may be one of the outstanding ends in the Pikes Peak League this season in his final year for the Trojans.

Three First-Stringers Ineligible at Colorado

BOULDER (AP)—Scholastic ineligibility of three first string players dealt another blow Tuesday to Colorado's football hopes.

Flanker back John Meadows, tackles Bill Frank and Jerry McClurg, were lopped off the squad for failing to meet Big Eight scholastic standards. A fourth squadman, halfback Jon Mars, was also sidelined for insufficient grades.

The loss of those four raises to 19 the number of players who've disappeared from the Big Eight champion's three-deep lineups this spring. Those 19 are in addition to 14 graduating lettermen who were lost.

Coach Bud Davis is left with seven lettermen around which to build a team that plays its first game Sept. 22 at Salt Lake City against Utah.

Frank, 234-pound junior from Denver, and McClurg, 234-pound junior from Grand Junction, were anchor men in the Buffs' big line.

Meadows, 6-4, 216 pounds, from Roy Oak, Mich., was a key player in the pro-type offense installed by Davis. He was the wide end or flanker back under the Davis style of play.

Mars, 164-pound senior from St. Louis, failed to make a letter last year after earning a letter as a sophomore.

The 19 players—exclusive of the graduating lettermen — missing from the spring squad include players cut for NCAA recruiting violations, drop-outs and scholastic failures.

Davis became coach just before spring practice after Everett (Sonny) Grandelius was fired for recruiting violations.

Huskers Scrimmage

Lincoln, Neb. (AP) — Nebraska Football Coach Bob Devaney will hold a full-scale scrimmage today which he said will pave the way for the game-type scrimmage planned at Omaha Saturday.

The Omaha scrimmage will be the final such workout in preparation for the opener with South Dakota at Lincoln on Sept. 22. It was switched to Omaha to protect the new sod at Memorial Stadium.

State Defenses Drake

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Iowa State's football team worked on its defense Friday against a freshman squad running Drake plays in preparation for the opening game Saturday.

"This is the toughest opening game we have had in my five years here," Coach Clay Stapleton said. "Drake is the most improved team we will meet."

Mizzou Injured

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The University of Missouri's football drill Tuesday was lighter than the previous day's all-out scrimmage. Two men injured in the scrimmage session — Jerry Wallach, a starting tackle, and Ralph Kubinski, an alternate guard — were back in action.

But two other regulars, Weber, alternate quarterback, and Conrad Hitchler, starting end, were still out because of lingering ailments.

Oklahoma Punts

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma football players worked on punt returns Tuesday afternoon with no heavy contact as they prepared for the season opener with Syracuse Sept. 22. The morning drill was devoted to pass scrimmage. No new injuries were reported.

OSU Shifts Back

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Coach Cliff Speegle of Oklahoma State shifted letterman quarterback Bill Leming to left end Tuesday, a position he has played before. It was indicated the 6-6 Leming who is a good pass receiver, might continue at that spot.

Colts Release Kicking Ace, Steve Myhra

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Any big kick the Baltimore Colts have coming this year won't be done by Steve Myhra.

Myhra, who put the foot in Baltimore's football history with his clutch field goal in the 1958 National Football League title game, was released Tuesday as the Colts and other NFL teams pared their rosters to the regular season maximum of 36 players.

The Colts also asked waivers on veteran All-Pro halfback Lenny Moore, with the intention of putting him on the injured reserve list. Moore cracked his left kneecap last Sunday in an exhibition game and will be out for six to eight weeks.

Moore joins fullback Joe Perry, the NFL's all-time ground gainer on the injured list. Perry was hurt in an earlier exhibition game and placed on waivers. The loss of these two puts a serious crimp in Coach Wee Ewbbank's offensive plans.

in Coach Weeb Ewbank's offen-

Myhra's loss would be as keenly felt, since he has veteran Dick Bielski and rookie Wendell Harris of Louisiana State to handle the kicking chores.

In five years with the Colts Myhra booted 180 of 190 extra point attempts and 44 of 91 field goal tries for 312 points. Last year, he set a team record with 21 field goals and 98 points.

Myhra wasn't the only veteran cut Tuesday. The Detroit Lions trimmed three—fullback Johnny (O) Olszewski, end Glenn Davis and tackle Willie McClung. Olszewski, a 9-year vet, will be put on the injured list if not claimed.

Other veterans cut included line backer John Tracey by Philadelphia, tackle Don Lawrence by Washington, fullback Merrill Douglas by Cleveland, tackle Nate Borden by Dallas and tackle Urban Henry by Los Angeles.

In addition to Moore and Olszewski, rookie guard Joe Bob Isbell of Dallas, defensive back Jim Shorter of Cleveland, and backs Bill Cooper and Keith Luhnow of San Francisco will be placed on the injured reserve list if not claimed by another NFL team.

Denver, Louisville Grab Opening Playoff Victories

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The two top teams in the American Association, champion Indianapolis and runnerup Omaha, were beaten Tuesday in the start of the post-season playoffs.

Fourth-place Louisville clubbed the champs 5-3 while third-place Denver bounced Omaha 6-4. The games were the first of the best-of-five semifinals. Winners will meet in a best-of-seven series to determine the association's representative against the International League playoff winner in the so-called Little World Series.

Louisville's Frank Leja and Indianapolis' Harry Simpson each belted a 3-run homer. Chico Fernandez drove in the deciding runs for Louisville with singles in the sixth and eighth innings.

Denver broke loose for four runs, three of them unearned, in the eighth inning to slip by Omaha. Gates Brown's leadoff homer started the Denver uprising. A bases loaded single by Dick Smith in the seventh had boosted the host Omaha team into a 4-2 lead.

The teams play again tonight at Indianapolis and Omaha before shifting to Denver and Louisville.

Louisville will start Federico Olivo against Indianapolis' Taylor Phillips.

Twin Main Featured At RMKC

Tonight's 10-race card at the Rocky Mountain Kennel Club features a "double main event" as RMKC's Racing Secretary Frank Jones has matched two Grade A races, the eighth and ninth, both over the 5-16s mile distance.

In the eighth, it will be a return engagement for Joe Mamino's Amperex after his "show" last Saturday night. Alderson and Lentz's Capt. Marty and P C and E. J. Alderson's Flying Blazer captured the win and place honors.

Amperex is the "junior" of the trio, making his first official racing this season on the RMKC oval with eyes towards the annual RMKC Puppy Stake Races.

With a preformance line that reads seven starts and seven money wins (garnered from four wins, a place and two shows), there will be some handicappers who will favor Amperex, the pup, over the more experienced greyhounds. Flying Blazer has had seven starts and five times in the money with two wins, two places and show.

Wills, Sanford Keep League Leaders Moving

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Maury Wills of Los Angeles and Jack Sanford of San Francisco, two guys who rely on speed, have kept the first-place Dodgers and second-place Giants only a half-game apart in that National League pennant chase while continuing in pursuit of half-century-old records here.

* * *

16 STRAIGHT—Jack Sanford, of the San Francisco Giants hurled his 16th straight victory and his 22nd win of the season Tuesday when he shutout the Pittsburgh Pirates, 2-0, at San Francisco's Candlestick Park. "This is ridiculous," said Sanford. "Nobody wins 16 in a row." (AP Wirephoto)

Wills, the fleet Dodger shortstop, stole his 90th base, scored one run and drove in another with his 15th hit in 20 at-bats while Stan Williams and Ron Perranoski combined for a three-hitter in a 3-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs Tuesday night.

Sanford, the [illegible] Giant pitcher, kept San Francisco right behind, scattering eight hits in a 2-0 triumph over Pittsburgh for his 22nd victory of the season—and his 16th in succession since he last lost on June 13.

Trying to eclipse Ty Cobb's record of 96 stolen bases for Detroit in 1915, Wills pilfered No. 90 in the first inning against the Cubs and became only the second player in major league history to pass the 90-mark. He now has 16 games remaining in which to tie or surpass Cobb's feat.

Wills, who has hit safely in his last 19 games while pulling his batting average to an even .300, has stolen 14 bases in the last six games and 30 in the last 25. Cobb set his record on a 156-game program. The Dodgers have played 146.

Sanford, meanwhile, is chasing an elusive record of 19 straight victories, set exactly 50 years ago by Rube Marquard of the New York Giants. With 17 games left, Sanford figures to get four more starts, enough to give him a shot at the mark if he continues to win.

Sanford is bucking the bigger odds. But he's been bucking them since June 13, when his record stood at 6-6. What did he think about the triumph that propelled him closer to Marquard's record?

"This is ridiculous. Nobody wins 16 in a row."

Only one other game was scheduled in the NL Tuesday and in that one third-place Cincinnati remained 5½ games behind with 15 games to play by beating St. Louis 6-2.

The Dodbgers got off to a 2-0 lead in the first inning against Cub starter Bob Buhl (10-12) when Wills opened with a single, stole second and eventually scored on an error. Tommy Davis' sacrifice fly drove in the second run of the inning. Wills made it 3-0 in the fourth with a run-scoring single.

Williams (13-11) went into the ninth with a three-hit shutout, but a pair of throwing errors by Wills brought on relief specialist Ron Perranoski. George Altman's sacrifice fly got the Chicago run across.

Davis, who went 2-for-3 became the first in the majors to reach the 200-hit mark and moved back into the league batting lead with a .341 average—two points more than Cincinnati's Frank Robinson. Robinson was 0-for-3.

While Sanford extended his streak, Felipe Alou turned up as the hitting star for the Giants but failed in a bid to tie the NL record of 10 consecutive hits. Alou was stopped at nine, although he singled and scored in the third inning before hitting his 25th homer in the sixth. Alou had grounded out to third in the first inning. Pirate starter Tom Sturdivant (8-4) halted the streak. The victory was the Giants' seventh in a row.

Bob Purkey (21-5) won it for the Reds with a three-hitter, giving up home runs to Stan Musial and Ken Boyer before holding the Cardinals hitless after the fourth inning. Two former Cardinals — Don Blasingame and Eddie Kasko—drove in the key runs for the defending NL champs. Blasingame snapped a 2-2 tie with a single in the fifth and Kasko wrapped it up with a three-run homer off Bob Gibson (15-12) in the ninth.

Byron (Whizzer) White, the newly appointed Surpreme Court justice, was an all pro halfback in 1940 with the Detroit Lions of the National Football League.

Dodgers Hit Road Without Don Drysdale

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Dodgers, an exciting and possibly a jittery ball club, flew out today on a 10-game road trip that could make or break their National League pennant hopes.

What with their 24-game winner, Don Drysdale, left behind for treatment of a rib injury, and the San Francisco Giants still just one half game behind, it is quite appropriate to note that the journey is fraught with peril.

Drysdale came up with what is hoped is merely a bruised rib. But the club's physician, Dr. Robert Woods, wants to take Xrays to see if their is anything more serious with Big Don.

"That is all we need," said Vice President Buzzie Bavasi, meaning that if Drysdale is truly in distress, the Dodgers can kiss the pennant goodby.

The injury, incurred in a collision with the Chicago Cubs' Ken Hubbs Monday night, is not believed serious, however. Drysdale is expected to rejoin the club in Chicago and pitch Saturday.

The Dodgers meet Houston in a single game tonight with Pete Richert going against the Colts' Ken Johnson, and then the club tangles with the Cubs, Milwaukee and St. Louis before returning to Dodger Stadium Sept. 25.

Knicks Will Play College All Stars

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Knickerbockers will play the 1962 College All-Stars in a charity basketball game at Madison Square Garden Oct. 12. The Boston Celtics, National Basketball Association champions, meet the Syracuse Nationals in the first game.

Angels Take Second

Yogi's Clutch Homer Boosts Yankees' Lead

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

During the years a decade or so ago when Ralph Houk was a reserve catcher under Yogi Berra, Yogi's specialty was winning games for the New York Yankees with vital hits.

Now, Houk is boss of the Yankees and Berra is a second string catcher—but Yogi is still winning games with clutch hits.

He connected for one Tuesday night, a 10th-inning home run that carried the Yanks to an 8-7 victory over the Detroit Tigers and inched them a bit further in front in the drive for their 27th American League pennant.

Berra came off the bench as a pinch batter in the eighth and delivered a run with a sacrifice fly as the Yankees scored three times for a 7-5 lead. The Tigers countered with two runs in their half of the inning and Berra, who stayed in the game as a replacement for first-stringer Elston Howard, got his next crack in the 10th.

He responded with a shot into Tiger Stadium's upper right field seats off rookie reliever Bob Humphreys—the 350th home run of his 17-season career.

By winning the cliffhanger, the Yankees moved four games ahead of the Los Angeles Angels, who took second place away from Minnesota with a second straight shutout over the Twins, 9-0. In the only other American League game, Cleveland blanked Washington 3-0 behind Jim Perry's six-hit pitching.

The Yankees raced off to a 4-0 lead against Frank Lary but their advantage disappeared quickly in the fourth when the Tigers ripped Jim Coates and Roland Sheldon for seven hits, the first six in succession.

Berra's fly, Tony Kubek's single and a ground out chased in three New York runs in the eighth, but again the Tigers roared back, tieing it when Dick McAuliffe homered and Chico Fernandez tripled in a run. Jim Bouton, the Yanks' sixth pitcher, held Detroit the rest of the way.

Right-handers Eli Grba and Don Lee combined for the Angels' shutout over Minnesota, which followed up Dean Chance's one-hitter of the night before. Grba limited the Twins to four singles over seven innings. Lee turned them back without a hit over the last two.

U.S. Clears Way For Resumption Of Atom Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has cleared the way for the resumption of atmospheric nuclear test explosions over the Pacific.

A spokesman for the Atomic Energy Commission said Monday night the tests probably will resume later this month or early in October. He indicated, however, that there probably would be no detonation until after Sept. 28, the date set for three six-orbit flight of astronaut Walter M. Schirra Jr.

A joint announcement by the AEC and the Defense Department said the off-limits safety zone around and above Johnston Island in the Pacific would be reactivated Sept. 22 in connection with the completion of the Pacific test series.

Test shots from the island were discontinued July 25 after a Thor missile bearing a nuclear warhead for high-altitude detonation was destroyed on the launch pad July 25. The AEC spokesman said the badly damaged launch area would be repaired by late this month.

The statement did not say how many tests will be conducted but said they will include a few high-altitude events and a few in which the devices will be dropped from an airplane.

President Kennedy said at his news conference after the July 25 failure that there might be three more tests over the Pacific.

The Soviet Union broke a three-year moratorium on atmospheric nuclear tests in September 1961. The United States resumed atmospheric tests last April 25. The Soviet Union began a second round of testing on Aug. 5, although the AEC has indicated there may have been Soviet atmospheric tests before that date. The AEC has announced 10 Russian shot in the latest series.

The U.S. shots announced by the AEC included 26 in the Christmas Island area of the Pacific, mostly devices dropped from planes.

On July 9 the United States successfully triggered a nuclear device 210 miles above the ocean. Three other high-altitude test shots from Johnston Island, including the July 25 effort, failed.

Monday night's announcement came shortly after the Soviet Union charged before a U.N. committee that U.S. high-altitude tests threaten the lives and security of astronauts.

Platon D. Morozov, Soviet delegate to the U.N. committee on peaceful uses of outer space, said at the committee's opening session that the United States resumed tests despite warnings from the Soviet Union and top U.S. scientists not to do so.

His statement took no notice of the latest Soviet test series which included at least one U.S.-announced high-altitude shot Aug. 7.

Bonds to Be Sold for Cowboy Hall of Fame

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) —Trustees of the National Cowboy Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center disclosed plans Monday to sell $1 million in bonds to speed completion of the center here.

The center has been under construction for several years. Lack of funds has delayed its completion.

Trustees also announced acceptance of a gift, reportedly more than $250,000, from O. L. Bullock, a Fresno, Calif., rancher.

Albert K. Mitchell, New Mexico rancher and Hall of Fame chairman, said plans for sale of the bonds would be announced within 90 days.

Hodges Declares Corporate Profit Record Is Good

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges announced today records for corporate profits and personal income. He described them as "not entirely satisfactory but still good."

Hodges told a news conference that before-tax profits of corporations reached a peak annual rate of $50.9 billion in the April-June quarter. The January-March rate was $50.1 billion and some observers had been dubious that the second quarter would be able to show much of a gain because of sluggishness in the economy.

The Commerce chief also reported that personal income—the income of individual Americans—rose by $1 billion in August to a record annual rate of $443 billion.

Hodges, while expressing the view that he would have preferred even stronger showings in profits and income, said he foresees good business at least through Christmas.

"I'm inclined to think business has picked up a bit," he commented. "July and August are encouraging. Over the short-term I think business is going to remain good."

Although corporate profits showed a second-quarter gain, the secretary described the "profits squeeze" of which businessmen complain as "still one of the larger problems facing the nation as a whole."

He said the April-June profits rate was "not anything like what it ought to be if we are to get funds for investment."

Most of the important monthly measures of the economy will be made public by the end of the week. Hodges' department had announced Monday that retail sales dropped by $100 million in August, to $19.6 billion. This decline of about one-half of 1 per cent followed a 3 per cent advance in July.

On other subjects, Hodges said:

He hopes President Kennedy's tax-cut legislation, which will go to Congress early next year, will be "simple and not too complicated, so we can get it without too much delay." In this way, he seemed to suggest that the tax cut should not be tied to a complex tax reform program being prepared by the Treasury, though he declined to recommend that the two items be submitted separately.

He expects the administration's major tariff-cutting and trade bill will emerge from the Senate "pretty much as the President wants it," and very similar to the bill already passed by the House.

He believes business suspicion of the Kennedy administration has been greatly reduced in recent weeks. He no longer hears businessmen complain directly about last April's steel-price crisis.

The United States is seeking "better agreement with our allies" on what types of goods will be shipped to Iron Curtain customers. At present, many items which the United States will not sell to the Communist bloc can be obtained from European sources.

'Humanitarian Reason' Expected From Castro

NEW YORK (AP) — Troubleshooter James B. Donovan says he believes the Castro government of Cuba may be persuaded to free the Bay of Pigs invasion prisoners for humanitarian reasons.

Donovan, who represents the Cuban Families Committee for the Liberation of Prisoners of War, suggests the Cuban government might free the 1,100-odd prisoners in view of Cuba's compelling need for such necessities as "food and medicines for Cuban infants, children, the sick and the aged."

He says his organization could provide these items.

Donovan, who returned here last week from negotiations in Cuba, discussed the outlook with newsmen Monday night.

Donovan said he probably will return to Cuba shortly to resume the prisoner negotiations after he consults with his supporters here.

Donovan, 46, a Brooklyn lawyer, negotiated the release of U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers by the Russians in exchange for Col. Rudolf Abel, Soviet spy who had been imprisoned here.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

THE FEMALE TOPER

[illegible] of the alcoholics in the [illegible] States are women. The majority can be helped provided they will admit their addiction and accept treatment. But this is easier said than done.

Dr. Sedgwick Mead, writing in the Medical Times, says most women deny they are drinkers, often vehemently. Some are able to conceal the habit for many years, especially when they do [illegible] imbibing alone. Many get [illegible] priming while lunching [illegible] the girls; they sneak a snort or two before leaving the house, order two or three cocktails while waiting to eat, and indulge in serious drinking on returning home.

The husband gets suspicious when the liquor bills go up, mama obviously is high, or the house is as messy as it was when he left in the morning. On the other hand the condition may escape detection when he stops off [illegible] a drink or two after leaving the office and has a few more with his wife after getting home. This may explain why the women least suspected sometimes turn out to be alcoholics. They come from all walks of life and, according to Dr. Mead, might include a gentle gray-haired librarian or even a minister's wife.

But there are telltale signs that [illegible] them away, especially when [illegible] consults a physician for a re[illegible] unrelated problem. The [illegible] tremble and the palms are [illegible] swollen and shiny red. [illegible] women tend to smoke incessantly and are likely to be pale [illegible] thin from undernourishment [illegible].

The modern female alcoholic is [illegible] her counterpart of a century ago. She was the buxom, [illegible] type, Dr. [illegible] explains, with brandy blossoms on nose and cheeks.

[illegible] of the liver and heavy drinking go together like ham and eggs. But the old liver often can stage a comeback if the individual stops all forms of drinking. Many women ex-alcoholics live to a ripe old age after they take the pledge.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if a stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

Reply

A few persons have been bothered but this is only a drop in the bucket considering the millions who spray their hair. In addition, these few women used the spray many, many times a day and all got well when they discontinued the chemical.

A painful swelling may stem from infections, tumors, parasites, bites, or injuries. Your friend ought to see a physician when the "rising" arises so that a firsthand diagnosis can be made.

Grain, Feed Dealers Refute High Cost of Grain Storage

Using an average family income of $8,000, the Grain and Feed Dealers National Association has released figures showing that grain stored in commercial warehouses is costing the [illegible] family $3.84 annually or about 32 cents a month.

In a booklet entitled "Grain Reserves," the national association of privately-owned and cooperative grain firms states that many people have been led to believe that a very large percentage of the estimated $6,300,000,000 budget for agricultural programs for fiscal year 1961-62 has been paid for grain storage services to commercial warehousemen. It [illegible] payments total [illegible] or only 4.8 per cent of the fiscal [illegible] agricultural budget.

This cost then represents a nominal family expense of 32 cents per month to help pay for maintaining a reserve of unprocessed food.

In attempting to "set the record straight," the association points out that warehousemen are not guaranteed a certain amount of storage for definite periods of time as many people have been led to believe. It emphasizes [illegible] guarantee of the number of days the grain will be left in the warehouse.

Warehousemen have tremendous responsibilities and assume great risks in connection with grain storage, G.F.D.N.A. says. Commercial warehousemen are responsible for maintaining the quantity, the quality and condition of the grain owned by the Government when it is placed in the warehouse. The warehouseman must return to the Government, at any time the Government decides, grain of the same quantity and quality that was placed in the warehouse or he must pay the Government the difference.

The responsibilities and risks of grain warehousemen are great, the association says, because grain is a living organism which must be stored in structures with adequate temperature controls and proper equipment for drying, turning, loading in and loading out. In addition, the grain must be observed constantly for insect control and rodent control and must be moved to keep it from deterioration. The warehouseman also assumes the risk of loss from shrinkage, fire or other destruction of the grain.

Milk Cow Prices Drop Below 1960 Levels

The average price farmers receive for milk cows in 1962 will be well below the 1960 and 1961 levels, it was predicted by the Economic Research Service.

Prices during the first quarter of the year were maintained at about the $224 per head level of last year, but declined to an average of $219 in the second quarter. A further decline to $217 was noted in June and July. Low demand for milk stock was attributed in part to poor pasture conditions and low supplies of roughage in north Atlantic and southern states.

Lovelorn Advice Has Political Tinge in Hungary

VIENNA (UPI)—The Communist Radio Budapest has a form of "advice to the lovelorn" program although its questions and answers sometimes take on a political tinge.

The once-a-week program is called "Human Problems of Young People."

A young woman met an old admirer in a Budapest streetcar. Both then realized that their love was "for real" but, alas, the ex-boy friend had married another in the meantime. What to do?

"Turn down his request for a date," was the Hungarian Mr. Anthony's reply. "It might bring unhappiness to the old flame's lawful wedded wife."

Another listener, a young woman of 22 married to a man several years older, said his six-year-old child from wife number one was "poisoning" her marriage.

The child had, the woman felt, inherited the bad qualities from his drunkard mother.

"Nonsense," the radio warned. The woman was told she must try to love the child if only for the sake of saving her marriage which could become more precarious with the passing of time.

"How is it possible to hate a six-year old child anyway?" the commentator then asked.

Turning to the political side, a 19 year old youth who was an active Communist Youth League participant said his father—a very religious man—was threatening to stop supporting his son if he didn't quit his political activities.

The young man was caught betwixt and between—father or secretaryship of the local Communist Youth League. He had thus far been facing the dilemma by calling the meetings only on the nights when his watchman father was on duty on the collective farm.

The radio column praised the youth's attitude, especially in his wish not to hurt his father.

"A Communist Youth League secretary must be first in the organization also in human behavior. And a large part of that is made up of love and honor towards one's parents."

It advised the young man to have a senior party member or senior member of the collective farm speak to his father and convince him the son had chosen "the right way."

POLO PRACTICE

Polo practice is set for 7:30 p.m. Friday at the Kit Carson Riding Club arena. Participation is not limited to members of the sponsoring riding club.

Tax Comparison By States Given In USDA Report

Some of the many state - to - state differences in tax treatment of farm personal property are discussed in a report issued by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Here are a few of the differences. Tractors are taxed in 34 states; seven states completely exempt farm machinery and tools. Sheep less than nine months old in Iowa are exempt, but in Vermont they become taxable at four months. Seven states do not tax livestock, while 17 grant partial exemptions through varying methods.

The report, prepared by USDA's Economic Research Service, describes how states tax personal prperty that is used in agriculture. It compares exemptions by state and region in the following categories: Farm tools and machinery, livestock, poultry, growing crops, stored crops and seed, tractors and farm trucks and automobiles used in production.

A free copy of the report, "Taxation of Tangible Personal Property Used in Agriculture," ERS-86, may be obtained from the Division of Information, Agricultural Economics, U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C.

'BRANCH' HOSPITALS EASE CITY BURDEN

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Like major department stores, city hospitals are establishing "branches" in the suburbs. The move is designed to cut down on the patient-load of the major hospitals and ease the traffic problem in the downtown areas where most of these institutions are located.

The development of these "satellite" hospitals has aroused nationwide interest according to Medicine At Work, official publication of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association.

The publication said about 20 satellites are currently in the country. Prominent among them is one in Alexandria, Va. Called an "electronic-era hospital." This unit is regarded as a prototype of tomorrow's hospitals.

In addition to air conditioning and conventional television, it has closed-circuit video facilities affording communication among patients, physicians and nurses in various parts of the building. While parking is virtually unavailable at the downtown hospital, the new unit has spacious parking facilities.

Concerning the location of satellites, the executive board of the Memorial Baptist Hospital in Houston, Tex., said these units will outflank transportation problems by "taking the hospitals to the people, instead of taking the people to the hospitals."

ATLANTA (AP) — More than 600 employes of Georgia Power Co. got an unexpected holiday Monday. The power failed.

Trees Planted In Rural Areas

Colorado ranchers and farmers planted nearly 750,000 State Forest Service tree seedlings this year for windbreaks shelterbelts, and reforestation.

These were only the trees sold by the State Forest Serivce at Ft. Collins, Thomas Borden, extension and state forester at Colorado State University, said. Many trees were sold by commercial nurseries in addition to State Forest Service sales.

Most of the trees were sold for windbreaks and shelterbelts, Borden said, but the number of trees planted in the mountains for eventual harvest as posts, poles, pulpwood, and Christmas trees is increasing.

State Forest Service trees cannot be used for ornamental plantings and are restricted to rural areas of at least two acres. Cost of trees has been 5 cents and 6 cents for bare - rooted ones, 20 cents and 25 cents for potted trees.

Information on tree planting is available from county extension offices or Colorado State Forest Service on the CSU campus at Ft. Collins.

Yankee Farmer Helps Thailand To Mend Fences

By TOM A. CULLEN

BANGKOK, Thailand (NEA)—An American farmer is helping Thailand to mend its fences along the 1,000-mile border which it shares with Laos, and which consequently has left it wide open to Communist infiltration and subversion.

He is Robert E. Lashier, 43, who owns a small farm in New Paltz, N. Y., and who has helped to organize the Thai Mobile Information Teams which now operate in remote villages of northeastern Thailand along the Laos border.

Purpose of these teams is to listen to the villagers' grievances and otherwise to show them that, contrary to Communist propaganda, the government of Thailand cares. The teams vaccinate the villagers against smallpox, show them educational films, give them nails with which to build new schools and distribute pictures of the king.

The Thais run the show, but the U.S. gives support in the form of information materials, vehicles U.S. gives support in the form and personnel.

In most villages Lasher is the first American that the natives have seen. "It's like being in a road show," said Lasher, a short, slight, bespectacled man with iron gray crew cut hair. "The trouble is that I am on stage 18 hours a day."

Lasher has become used to awakening early in the morning to find a crowd gathered around his cot.

He has also grown accustomed to eating such delicacies as fermented fish, boiled rattan shoots, tree fungus, roasted cicades and red ants garnished with ant eggs. These last he says are sour but tasty.

He has even become hardened to jeeping over ox-cart tracks with holes in them as big as bathtubs.

The region is infested with bandits, but Lasher refuses to carry a weapon. "To do so would show the villagers I was afraid," he explains.

Until the Mobile Information Teams began operation in January, the people of northeastern Thailand not only had never seen a foreigner, but they had never before seen a movie, an automobile or a government official from Bangkok.

Economically, the northeastern provinces are Thailand's most backward and neglected, hence the most vulnerable to Communist propaganda.

Along most of its 1,000-mile eastern border, Thailand is divided from Laos by the Mekong River, which is like a main street used by both Thai and Lao people, who are linked by strong cultural and ethnic ties.

"We found that when we showed our films at night along the river, about one-third of our audience would be Lao, who had come over in boats," Lasher explains. "With the exception of those in the uniform of the Royal Laotian Army they were indistinguishable from the Thais."

Recently Communist Pathet Lao teams have taken to crossing the river in order to recruit Thai villagers. They have also distributed medicines, blankets and even money in the Thai villages.

Powerful propaganda broadcasts in their own northeastern dialects are beamed at the Thai villagers from Peking and Hanoi, capital of Communist North Viet Nam.

The Laos-based Communists are meeting with some success in their efforts to subvert the Thais. "In some villages along the Mekong we noticed that there were no young men at the movie showings or vaccinations," declares Lasher. "When we asked where the young men were we met with evasive answers.

"We were told that they were off working somewhere, but the villagers refused to say where."

Undoubtedly, some of them are being trained to fight with the Pathet Lao, either as volunteers or as paid mercenaries.

The region's basic cash crop is rice, and this year most of the northeastern villages have been stricken by a major disaster in the form of rice worm, which has destroyed almost their entire crop. Not only do they not have enough to sell, but not enough to carry them through to the next harvest.

In addition to emergency supplies of rice, the villages need roads, water, schools and health facilities, according to Lasher. There is only one doctor for every 28,000 people in the provinces.

Each of the three Mobile Information Teams now operating has a doctor, and the teams have been promised the use of a helicopter to enable them to continue their visits during the rainy season when the ox-cart tracks become impassable.

Use Trays to Water Plants From Bottom

Set groups of house plants that like humidity in trays or planters paved with an inch or so of pebbles and vermiculite and keep trays watered up to the top of the pebble layer.

In this home - made humidifier, plants in pots can absorb moisture from below, and excess water draining from direct watering of plants from above can collect in trays.

Don't allow bottoms of pots to stand in water above the pebble layer too long or roots of most plants will tend to become waterlogged.

HOMEMAKERS MEET

Living room accessories will be discussed by CSU home furnishings specialist, Mary Grinstaff, at 1:45 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 20, at the Alta Vista School, five miles south of Ramah. The meeting will be open to the public.

Three Heifers Awarded In Angus Show

More than 200 Colorado farm and ranch youngsters and their parents attended the recent Golden trend Angus Futurity show and short course at Colorado State University, Ft. Collins. The event was sponsored by the presentation of three registered Angus heifers to the top three winners. Those receiving the heifers were David Mathias, Greeley, who exhibited the champion steer of the show. His calf was donated by Mr. and Mrs. Burt Nauta of Ft. Collins. The second heifer was won by Richard Folot of Ft. Collins who exhibited the champion bull of the show. His heifer was a donation of Ideal Angus Farms at La-Porte. The third heifer, donated by the North Colorado Junior Angus organization, was won by Karen Shields, Ft. Collins, who showed the champion and reserve champion heifers.

The awards were based on a combination of accurate record books, placings in the Golden Trend show, and showmanship.

Judge of the entries was Dan Thornton of Denver, former governor of Colorado and well-known cattleman. He judged over 50 bulls, heifers, and steers.

The reserve champion bull of the show was an entry of Janet Bohlender of LaSalle, and the reserve champion steer was exhibited by Richard Carlson of Johnstown.

At the short course, held the day prior to the show, the youngsters heard talks and watched demonstrations by members of the animal husbandry department at the University. Featured speaker was Lyle V. Springer, technical director for the American Angus Association, St. Joseph, Missouri, who discussed the Association's herd improvement program. The program covers herd classification, production measurements and carcass evaluation.

Fountain Valley School Awarded Science Grant

The National Science Foundation has awarded the Fountain Valley School a grant of $14,000 for a research project on lepidoptera, the order of insects consisting of the butterflies and moths.

Notification of the grant was made this morning in a telegram to the Gazette Telegraph from Congressman J. Edgar Chenoweth.

The grant will support a research entitled "A critical Study of W. H. Edwards' Type Specimens" and will be under the direction of the school's science department head, F. Martin Brown.

Brown is one of the world's leading lepidopterist and has worked on this problem for the past 35 years. He discovered papers attributed to Edwards a leading lepidopterist of the 19th Century, in the archives of the state of West Virginia, which dealt with Edwards' findings in the West during the years 1858 thru the 1870s.

Brown said this morning his job will include gathering notes on Edwards' researches and cataloguing them into a definitative study on butterflies of the west.

The study will run for approximately two years and the grant was authorized to the school to begin Sept. 1.

Cross-Country Wheelchair Trip Thwarted

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — A 21-year-old college student, paralyzed from the waist down, said today he was thwarted in an attempt to travel across the country in a wheel chair after two months on the road.

Brad DaPont, who attends San Jose State College, said Wyoming authorities refused to allow him use of the roads for safety reasons last week. He returned home Monday in a truck that had been following him during the two month trip.

"We think we proved it was possible and with effective backing and the right kind of pull we might try it again next summer," DaPont said.

Utah also had refused DaPont permission to use its roads. He was forced to detour through Idaho in the wheelchair, specially equipped with handcranks and gears for hill climbing.

Before he reached the Idaho-Wyoming border DaPont said he telephoned ahead. When entry was refused for the wheelchair, DaPont and his crew made the decision to return home.

Physician Sought For U.S. Murder Found in Andorra

PERPIGNAN, France (AP)— A New York law official flew to France today, seeking the return of Dr Harvey Lothringer, a New York physician sought in the abortion death of a 19-year-old college girl.

Lothringer, 41, and his attractive secretary, Theresa Carillo, 24, were arrested Sunday in Andorra, a tiny state in the Pyrenees on the French-Spanish border. They were jailed in Perpignan, 65 miles to the east in France.

Queens County Dist. Atty. Philip Chetta flew from New York Monday night and said he would try to get Lothringer and Miss Carillo to return voluntarily.

French police said the arrests followed a Europe-wide alert from Interpol, the international police organization. The couple disappeared three months ago, a few days before parts of the dismembered body of Barbara Lofrumento and the remains of an unborn baby were found in the sewer of Lothringer's $75,000 office-home in Queens.

Lothringer, described by U.S. authorities as a member of a New York abortion ring, was held on a warrant charging him with a 1961 abortion prior to Miss Lofrumento's death.

No charges were filed against Miss Carillo, a former airline hostell described by authorities as the doctor's girl friend.

U.S. authorities said Miss Lofrumento was taken to Lothringer by her parents, who paid $500 in advance for the abortion. When the parents later sought the girl she and the doctor had disappeared.

Miss Lofrumento, a sophomore at the College of New Rochelle, a Roman Catholic girls school near New York City, was the daughter of a Manhattan drug store owner.

City Firemen Bring Back Fine Fish Catch

There must be some kind of magic in the way fish bite for firemen. Three members of Company 5 and one of Company 4 of the fire department and Capt. Neil Leuhring Tuesday went fishing on their days off and returned with 40 rainbow trout, as fine a catch as ever seen.

Those of Company 5 were Carl Loos, Gene Showmaker and of Company 4 Bud Grimm.

HEDDA ESCAPES SMOG ON VACATION IN OREGON

[illegible] Sept. 8—Back at the desk and so rested I'm loose as a goose [illegible] heaven. No other place in the world has more peace, beauty and glorious friendships. I've been visiting Phyllis Tucker at her Oregon summer home, Rogue's Roost, which she and her husband, Nion, bought in 1927. She's missed very few summers there since. Her sister, Helen Cameron, came up from San Francisco to stay with us for several days, and her grandson, [illegible] McElroy, has been with her for two months. His hero is Duke Wayne; his favorite picture, "Hatari," so we listened to the music from it at least twice a day. And an autographed picture of Duke is on the way to him.

We lunched one day with Ginger Rogers and Bill Marshall, whose farm is down the road a piece. [illegible]

The Robert Wells of San Francisco popped in at Rogue's Roost for a short visit. They'd finished a four-day showing of their prize Kerry Blue terriers at various dog shows. The kennels are in the San Fernando valley and they visit them every six weeks. When the dogs are too old to show, he finds good homes for them.

The Oregon [illegible] from [illegible] on a chartered plane, paid $14 for the round trip and made enough in two months of work to cover expenses. Two Cambridge students dined with us one night: Peer Shortell, a graduate, and David Lanhester, in his first year, whose father has a boys' school near Bristol. They're now touring America in a [illegible] Ford—San Francisco, Colorado Springs Air Force academy, New Orleans, and Boston before flying home. That's more of the country than many of our citizens ever see.

Went with Robertson Collins to see "Comedy of Errors" at the Oregon Shakespeare festival. This is where George Peppard started his career. Our talent scouts should have seen how well it was played by college students. I thought three had exceptional talent—two young commedians, Kirk Mee and Charles Tayler, who made much out of nothing, and a lovely girl from Washington, Sally Pagliuca. Rod Alexander directed, kept the actors moving like clockwork. Angus L. Bowmer, the founder, brought his wife and father to luncheon, and the Alfred Carpenters were also with us. She's a beauty and he has a terrific twinkle in his eye. He recently donated two million to the Medford, Ore., hospital. Saw Rose manor, a beautiful home for senior citizens which tops a high hill. Apartments sell from $10,000 to $30,000 with expenses totaling $125 a month, and it's practically filled. One couple, 45 years of age, became so fascinated that to assure themselves of a lovely future home they put down a deposit of $10,000, altho they're not eligible to live there until they hit 60. A doctor and his wife, living in India, read about it, mailed in their check and are now living happily there.

Electronics Give Punch To Trading in Market

NEW YORK (AP)—Electronics, oils and saving and loan holding company issues attracted enough support to push the stock market higher early this afternoon.

The trading pace remained subdued and most gains were fractional among the key stocks. There were many small losers, too.

Prices headed upward almost from the opening, continuing yesterday's spotty improvement.

Market analysts expressed reservations about the latest reports on record corporation profits and personal income but evidently official forecasts of good business at least through Christmas inspired some degree of confidence.

At noon the Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up .2 at 223.3 with industrials ahead .4, rails off .2 and utilities up .2.

Steels were unchanged to a bit lower while the Big 3 motors each added ½ or less. The aircraft section had some plus signs around the 1-point range and so did hte chemicals. Airlines and metals were generally a shade better while rails and utilities were mixed.

Higher priced issues showing multi-point gains included IBM about 3 and Polariod about 2. Du Pont added around 1.

The savings and loan holding companies were called "interesting" by a large brokerage house, which said their tax situation is gradually clearing. First Charter Financial, Financial Federation and Great Western Financial were ahead by 1 or nearly that much.

A trade association reported manufacturers sales of electronic devices and equipment this year would hit a record $13.1 billion compared with under $12 billion last year. Among the electronic issues gaining fractions were Ampex, Zenith and RCA.

Whirlpool, 18.6 per cent owned by RCA, moved up a major fraction as RCA said it had abandoned plans to sell one million of its Whirlpool shares because of the condition of the market.

Thiokol advanced about 1 in continued reaction to word the company was working on a new and more powerful rocket fuel. Merck tacked on almost a point to recent gains. A brokerage house said the company was working on a new drug to combat high blood pressure.

American Motors and Studebaker were unchanged.

U.S. Steel was fairly active and off a major fraction while Republic fell a minimum fraction. Bethlehem was unchanged. Four steel companies are appearing before a Senate committee today to explain why they refuse to submit production cost figures.

At noon the Dow Jones industrial average was up 1.13 at 605.12.

Amerada and General American Oil gained 1 or a little more while other major oils were up fractionally.

Other gains of about 1 or more were made by General Dynamics, Homestake Mining and U.S. Gypsum.

American Stock Exchange prices advanced slightly in quiet trading. Brandywine Raceway advanced more than 2. Up 1 or more were Anken Chemical, Drilling & Exploration and Syntex. Loral Electronics and Continental Vending fell fractions.

Bond prices were mostly unchanged in quiet trading.

Retail Volume Depends on Sale Of New Cars

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—A lot is riding on the new car models this year. The nation's merchants are optimistic about beating last fall's sales volume in the stores. But total retail sales will depend on how fast the new cars move out of the dealers' showrooms.

Total retail sales volume will have a lot to do in determining how the economy looks to the policy makers in Washington as they prepare their proposals for the next Congress. And final consumer sales tell the manufacturers what to expect and how high to set production schedules — and whether to hire or lay off workers.

So consumer-watching is a widely followed occupation, especially in time of uncertainty like these.

The rise and fall of the government's retail sales chart is watched closely. But there are those who think some improvement would make it a better tool for decision making.

A drop in auto sales is credited for the slight dip total retail sales took in the Commerce Department's retail chart in August. Seasonally adjusted the August sales were $19.6 billion, compared with the record July high of $19.7 billion.

In contrast the sales of nondurable goods rose to a high in August of $13.4 billion, up 1 per cent from July.

The new car models are expected to boost auto sales as dealers display them in the next few weeks—the question is how much?

In the stores, all is optimism as fall approaches. The National Retail Merchants Association says a poll of 211 executives heading stores doing a $3-billion annual business show 71 per cent expected sales in the second half of 1962 to top year ago figures by at least 5 per cent.

They feel that consumers have the money and aren't afraid to spend it, although they may be more choosy in their purchases than some stores and some manufacturers will like.

The Department of Commerce adjusts its various figures seasonally. That is, it makes allowance for changing consumer habits—the time of year they buy this or that, the time they repay bills instead of shopping, and for the average weather conditions.

But a couple of New York University professors, Dr. William C. Freund and Dr. Robert A. Kavesh, think the seasonal adjustments could be improved, if merchants, manufacturers and the public are to get a true picture of how things are faring with the economy.

Since unseasonable weather is one of the chief culprits not only in store traffic but often in industrial production, transportation and home building, the predictions frequently go askew.

"There is no reason why the Department of Commerce, together with the U.S. Weather Bureau, cannot issue a weather index which compares actual weather conditions with average weather conditions for geographic regions of the country. Such an index would provide a ready means for modifying the seasonal factors used in adjusting economic time series," the professors say.

Retail sales, housing starts, and other figures so adjusted would give the public a much clearer picture of what actually happened, rather than what should have happened under average weather conditions. Since the public tends to extremes of pessimism or optimism when the official figures don't come up to or exceed expectations.

Snell and Johnson Invited to Conferences

Claire W. Snell, 2508 Sturgis Road, president of the Smartt Snell Insurance Agency, 2502 E. Bijou St., and James A. Johnson, 2805 Pennsylvania St., manager of the Johnson Insurance Agency, 3132 Alabama St., have been invited to attend the Kemper Insurance group's golden anniversary conferences, Sept. 23 thru Oct. 1, in Chicago and Bermuda.

The golden anniversary conferences, so named in recognition of the Kemper organization's 50th anniversary year, will offer Snell and Johnson, along with the nearly 1,000 others expected to attend, a variety of seminars and training sessions on such subjects as agency management, advertising, new developments in the insurance industry and other aspects of the insurance profession.

Invitation to the conferences is based on achievement in the sales and service of fire, casualty and life insurance during the year ending June 30, 1962. Snell will be accompanied by his wife, Carol. They are the parents of two children, David, 13, and Mary Ann, 9.

Mrs. Grace Johnson will also accompany her husband on the trip. Their two children, 13 and 10, are Kathryn and Christine.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—The electrical equipment industry is still turning out products at a record rate with sales, even of appliances, at near peak levels, says Value Line Survey.

However, trends of recent months show some causes for gloom about the boom. The expected downturn in economic activity would find many of the electrical equipment companies vulnerable. The survey believes that profit erosion of the electrical equipment industry in the event of a recession next year could be more severe than at any time since the war.

According to Joseph E. Granville of E. F. Hutton & Co., prices have apparently entered a declining channel from which there appears to be no immediate deviation or departure.

Dow-Jones industrial average moved under the 600 level long enough to eliminate the bullish pattern of rising tops and bottoms and this would infer that the important tests ahead lie on the downside.

Investograph Stock Survey says that textile production is still increasing but there are indications that the cycle is reaching a peak and may start down again soon. Profit margins are becoming narrower, because wages are rising, and industry overcapacity does not permit raising prices to compensate for the wage rises.

HOME TRADE-INS

NEW YORK (UPI) — The trade-in in home selling has arrived, a spokesman for the National Association of Home Builders says. He estimated that sellers of 20 per cent of new homes are now taking in old houses as part of the deal.

Yesterday's Market

Market Advance Clipped; Trade Reported Mixed

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock market prices closed mixed today as selling in the final minutes of trading clipped earlier advances. Volume for the day was moderate.

A number of key issues retained gains of 1 or more. There were many losers, however.

Volume for the day was estimated at 3.1 million shares, compared with 2.52 million Monday.

Prices opened mixed and showed little movement most of the morning. An uneven improvement set in when Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges reported that corporate profit reached a record annual rate in the June quarter and that personal income reached a new peak in August.

Many of the higher priced issues see-sawed, first showing losses of more than a point and then moving ahead in the same range.

Xerox, Texas Instruments, Polaroid, Litton and IBM all were up by around 1½ or more.

Steels edged up but were unable to make much headway. U.S. Steel and Jones & Laughlin managed small gains while Bethlehem and Republic held small losses.

Motors were mixed with GM and American holding unchanged. Ford and Chrysler up a bit and Studebaker off a fraction.

Du Pont picked up more than 2 and Union Carbide almost 1½ to lead chemicals higher.

Many metals fell back a bit as did many of the rails. Oils were mixed.

Among the higher aircraft group McDonnell improved by about 2 and Boeing by more than 1. Douglas, General Dynamics and Lockheed gained fractions.

Chicago Rock Island & Pacific Railroad reduced the dividend and the stock fell almost 2. Chicago Great Western Railway omitted a dividend and the stock fell about the same.

Bond prices generally were higher as trading slackened in both government and corporate markets.

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP)—Demand was light and scattered in the grain futures market today and prices were easier most of the time in rather quiet dealings on the Board of Trade.

Prices backed down at the start without any significant pressure. Dealers said commercial support was negligible and that speculators accounted for nearly all the transactions.

Estimated carlot receipts were: wheat 3 cars, corn 55, oats 5, rye 1, barley 2 and soybeans 17.

Jerry Crosby Moves Bureau To 421 N. Tejon

The Jerry Crosby Bureau of Employment has moved to a new location in the First Federal Building, 421 N. Tejon St., from 112½ E. Pikes Peak Ave.

Crosby said the new location "provides adequate space, with 'Madison Avenue appoints' " for the five employes engaged in the personnel business. Free parking facilities are avaliable immediately north of the building.

Crosby will celebrate his eighth year in the private agency field in January. His is the oldest agency operated by the same owner in the city.

Suite 200 at the new location provides private offices and ample space for personal and confidental interviews. The agency provides a trained staff in four particular interviews. The agency provides a trained staff in four particular functions regarding the problems of employment. The break-down covers three departments regarding the ladies and one department covering all the related needs for the men.

Dottie Mims is personnel director in charge of ladies placements in the permanent office field. This department includes secretarial, general office, typing and bookkeeping.

Clarice Shortt interviews ladies seeking jobs in sales, housekeeping, factory and waitress employment and directs this department with understanding and efficiency.

The Kelly Girl Service was contracted over three years ago and now is active in the temporary clercial field. Miss Virginia Kiser is the employment supervisor in this service department and dispatches all girls to offices throut the city. This is a no-fee service for ladies interested in only part time work.

The men's division is under supervision by Bayard Cole. All kinds of sales positions, administrative and skilled and non-skilled positions are handled confidentially in this department. A new operation is now featured by Cole in directing out-of-town and world wide listings. Technical employment is his baby.

Jerry Crosby formerly played professional baseball. After 16 years of playing and managing, his first love has become employment, and he still manages and plays.

1923 DURANT

DID YOU KNOW . . . . that at the time the automobile pictured above was popular, there was about $100 billion of life insurance in force in the United States; in 1961 the total exceeded $600 billion?

During these years, the amount of life insurance protection owned by Americans has grown about 10 times faster than our population!

Among insured families, the average amount of life insurance in force at the end of 1961 was about $13,600!

HOW DOES THIS COMPARE WITH THE AMOUNT OF LIFE INSURANCE YOU NOW CARRY . . . AND HOW LONG WOULD IT LAST UNDER TODAY'S STANDARDS OF AVERAGE FAMILY'S ANNUAL DISPOSAL OF INCOME?

Dangerously Deceptive Word: "Averages"

Stop and think about this if you are an investor. You can take all the stocks in the market and average them out and not get a true picture at all. In today's market there are some stocks that are good buys, some not so good, and, in some industries downright bad. This subject is carefully explored in Harris, Upham's new Market Review. For instance, it lists 15 stocks bought by professional investors during the second quarter of '62. And a list of 20 stocks showing better than average promise. Another section covers 16 industries (and maybe you're in some of them) that have been significantly out of favor with investors. And 21 others in favor. Just a few highlights of the new Market Review. Send for your complimentary copy today.

New Stamp Gift Book Released Here This Week

The 1963 Gold Bond Stamp Company gift book was released this week thruout the country and is available at all Gold Bond retail outlets, thru the mail and at Gold Bond gift centers.

The 106 page gift book features four new elements which are Gold Bond exclusives: courturier fashions by designer, Roberto of Chadou; Golden tours to Europe, tribute to American women; and a special drop gatefold cover with a reminder calendar for special events.

Also emphasized are the varied club activities in which women engage and the means by which she can take advantage of the stamp company's group project program.

According to Curtis L. Carlson, president, over 10,000 clubs and organizations representing over a million women are presently engaged in the group project program which offers a unique plan for reaching a variety of organizational objectives ranging from high school buses to silver tea sets.

There has been a seven per cent increase in the total number of items contained in the book with a major increase in western ranch-style furniture, furniture and lamps, toys, wheel goods and juvenile items, and planters and terrariums.

When John Crow of the St. Louis Cardinals eleven threw a wobbly pass covering 15 yards, teammate Bobby Conrad called it a knuckleball.

Six Defendants Plead Not Guilty in Court

Six defendants facing charges of burglary, larceny and robbery pleaded not guilty in District Court Tuesday and had their trial dates set.

Thomas White, 26, of 913 S. Prospect St., charged with aggravated robbery, will be tried Oct. 16.

He is alleged to have robbed John W. Hill July 21. Lawyer Paul Alan Barber represented him.

A Pueblo man, John Jacob Padilla, 29, will go on trial Nov. 7, for larceny from a motor vehicle.

According to information, he stole a quantity of narcotics and surgical instruments July 17 from a car belonging to Dr. Frank Nicks. The defendant appeared with counsel James V. Phelps and V. G. Seavy of Pueblo.

James Patrick Glennon, 41, of 21 Gorel Dr., pleaded not guilty to larceny by bailee. The district attorney's office, represented by Donald W. Higby, district attorney, and Patrick Hinton, assistant district attorney, dismissed the first count of grand larceny.

Glennon is accused of converting a $350 air conditioner, the property of Walk and Lee Auto Sales, to his own use, July 14. He will be tried Sept. 18. The defendant was represented by attorney Richard Hanes.

Eugene Young, 34, of 406 S. 9th St., appeared on two separate larceny from motor vehicle charges.

The first alleges he stole a quantity of plumbing tools, July 25, worth $337 from a car belonging to James Dougherty. He faces trial Nov. 20 on this charge.

The second states he took an English saddle, suitcase and other items, July 28, from a car belonging to Mrs. R. C. Jones. The articles were worth a total of $200. Nov. 7 is the date of his trial for the second charge.

James Edward Gribben will be tried Nov. 27 for burglary and larceny.

Gribben, 20, of Rodeo Court, is accused of breaking into the Central Uniform and Cleaning Supply building, 425 S. Tejon St., Aug. 5 and stealing $142. Lawyer Jack K. Agee represented him.

Marshall Malett, 25, of Phoenix, Ariz., also charged with burglary and larceny goes on trial Nov. 13.

Mallett, who was represented by Agee, is alleged to have broken into the S and L Jewelers, 19 E. Colorado Ave., Aug. 10, and taken two watches and 16 rings worth a total of $779.57.

Resident Makes Protest to City Council

A protest against operation of the city government was made Tuesday before the City Council by Henry Barnes of 115 E. Las Vegas St.

Barnes, who on Aug. 31 was dismissed from his job with the city street department, told council members, "I think all heads of city departments should be present at City Council meetings, including the formen. I think the council and the taxpayers should investigate so that city employes should be treated right."

Barnes, who worked as a truck driver with the street department since mid-May, ssaid he understood he was hired as a permanent employe and thought it was unfair that he was relieved of his job.

He presented a letter from Don Lawrie, street superintendent, who notified Barnes of his dismissal because of a cut in the city budget making it necessary to reduce the number of street department employes to the minimum.

The council referred Barnes to City Manager John M. Biery to discuss the problem.

Car, Camera and Guns Stolen Tuesday Night

A car containing two rifles, a loaded .38 caliber Smith and Wesson revolver and a speed graphic camera was reported stolen from the 00 block of South Cascade Avenue Tuesday night, according to a police report.

Police Officer George F. Follmer said the car belongs to Paul Burke, 68 Waltham Ave., Manitou Springs, and said the vehicle was described as a 1958 Chevrolet, bronze and white four door sedan bearing Colorado license No. JX-9421.

Follmer said the rifles were in the rear seat of the car, the revolver was under the front seat, and the camera was in the rear seat also.

Boy Bitten on Leg While Chasing Dogs

Jerry Richard Pike, 21, of 633 S. 8th St. was bitten on the leg by a dog Tuesday morning according to a police report.

Police Officer James Caldwell reported that Pike told him the incident occurred while he was trying to catch a group of dogs running loose in the 1300 block of Langmeyer St.

Authorities said the owner of the dog, Gerald Deveau, 1330 Langmeyer St., was contacted and advised to confine the animal for the customary period of time.

William Zakoor was the only jockey to win four races in one day at the 1962 Monmouth Park meeting.

Distortion Seen In Unemployment Rate Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's top manpower expert said today temporary distortions caused the August jump in the nation's unemployment rate.

Seymour Wolfbein, Labor Department manpower director, said today he looked for a drop in the rate as the distortions correct themselves in September and later fall months.

Wolfbein announced today that the number of workers on nonfarm payrolls rose by 225,000 to 55.7 million in August, a record for the month although an increase of 300,000 was seasonally expected.

The new figures furnished more details on the August job report last week which showed over-all civilian employment at a record 69,762,000, a slight decline in unemployment to 3,932,000, and an increase in the seasonally adjusted idle rate from 5.3 per cent in July to 5.8 per cent in August.

Wolfbein said that a [illegible] drop in auto industry em[illegible] due to 1963 model change[illegible] the fact that a large nu[illegible] people such as teachers [illegible] scheduled to take on jobs later although counted temporarily as unemployed were the temporary distortions he had in mind.

CHILDREN ENTERTAINED—Several of the youngsters from the Colorado Springs Christian Home enjoy a chicken dinner at the ENT AFB NCO Club. The children who were guests of the club for the entire day started off with a swimming party at the base pool. Next on the schedule was a chicken dinner followed by presentation of school supplies to the children.

Congress Is Blamed For Farmers Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Farmers Union today blamed Congress, the American Farm Bureau, and food industry groups for current attempts by the National Farmers Organization to hold farm products off markets to force higher prices.

In a statement the union said failure of Congress to enact more effective farm legislation had caused widespread disappointment and frustration among farmers. Thus, it said, some sought to correct the situation by holding products off markets. It said the Farm Bureau and industry groups—by using large lobbies—must accept a great portion of the responsibility for Congress' stand.

While expressing sympathy with the withholding movement, the union said the only way to secure fair treatment for farmers is through legislation which will control production.

Denver Is Reported As 'Sucker Town'

DENVER (UPI) — Denver Dist. Atty. Bert M. Keating said Monday that Denver "has become known as a sucker town" among the criminal element.

Keating, in an address at the Denver Democratic Club, said the Denver Police Department is undermanned "despite what experts have said." He said the city needs at least 800 working officers.

At present the Denver department is authorized for 797 men, but it is below that strength.

Keating called for more drastic penalties for criminals, new laws dealing with bail bond procedures and professional bondsmen and improved statutes relating to insanity pleas in criminal cases.

"Too much pity and tears are wasted on the poor, misunderstood criminal," the district attorney said.
